SITE FOR BRANCH POSTOFFICE MAY BE SELECTED

Location Across From City Hall Proposed at Session of Eastside Body

Quarters for a branch postoffice across Howard street from the city hall were suggested yesterday noon by C. E. Stanley of 108 North Everett street in the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, at the weekly luncheon of the East Glendale Advancement Association.

The lot on the northeast corner of Howard street and Broadway is owned by Garfield Jones of 908 East California avenue and his sister, Mrs. John F Wilde, who is now a resident of Seattle.

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, it is understood, has stated that a floor space of twenty-five by seventy-five feet would be large enough for postal purposes in this section of the city.

According to Mr. Stanley, Mr. Jones is agreeable to the erection of the required building and has written his sister to obtain her views on the subject. As soon as further information has been obtained a definite proposition will be formulated.

"That sounds as though we are approaching a solution to our postoffice problem," commented President C. W. Ingledue of 632 East Broadway, who presided, in regard to Mr. Stanley's report as chairman of the postoffice committee.

Balance for Railway

The question of raising the balance of the $25,000 to be paid the Glendale & Montrose Railway Company for establishing electric service on Glendale avenue was the subject of considerable discussion.

J. F. McClish of 410 East Maple street and J. P L. Perch of 723 East Broadway were appointed to the hotel committee. It was moved that Mr. Perch should be paid for his services.

"I know that if we let this thing dilly-dally around, we will probably lose out," asserted Frank L. Fox of 714 East California avenue. "The railroad company evidently has options on different materials and a lot of money tied up. They may throw the whole thing up if we wait too long. It wouldn't surprise me at all."

Mr. McClish reported that the residents along the right of way in the southern section of the city were considerably provoked

Present Applications to Conduct Patrols

Two applications for permits to operate patrol services in the City of Glendale were filed with the city council last night by City Manager W. H. Reeves and referred to Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police.

This action is in accordance with ordinance 615 which requires that all private agencies in the city must be licensed and the character of the managers approved.

One petition was submitted by Ira J. Herbert of 618 East Chestnut street who since February 1, 1921, has been operating the Glendale Patrol and Fire Dispatch. He mentions the territory from and including Lexington avenue on the north, Park avenue on the south, Central avenue on the west and Everett street on the east.

The other petition is submitted by B. R. Sims of 430 West Elk avenue and R. O. Scott of Los Angeles. They wish to organize an agency to be known as The Glendale Private Patrol and to provide patrol service to the residence district as well as the business section of the city.

W. N. Bott Residence Dinner Party Scene

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Bott of 108 East Elk avenue entertained Wednesday night with a dinner party at their home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Weirick of Los Angeles, who were recently married. Mrs. Wierick is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bott. Mrs. L. C. Leeds assisted as hostess.

The guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Weirick, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bott, Miss Pitney, all of Los Angeles, Mrs. Thelma Marsh of San Francisco, Mrs. Nadyne Forsythe, Mrs. T. Winslow, Mrs. M. E. Vanorman, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Leeds and family and Mrs. W. N. Bott of Glendale.

Decorations of roses were used throughout the house. After dinner the evening was spent in music. A. W. Bott was in France for two years and learned a number of French songs, which he rendered for the pleasure of the guests.

GIVE SUGGESTIONS FOR NAME OF CITY'S PARK

Long List Comes In Result of Appeal; Still More Ideas Are Wanted

Father, mother, sister, brother and grandparents, as well as aunts, uncles and cousins near and far removed, never took more interest in "naming the baby" than Glendale folk are evincing in the name for the city's new municipal park.

There has been a hearty response to the request from the Evening News and civics committee of the Chamber of Commerce for suggestions and possible names have been sent from as far away as Salt Lake City, Utah. The majority of the suggestions are without seconds, while a few have been duplicated. However, all are worthy of consideration and appreciation and the choice of the park's name will undoubtedly be close.

Suggested Names

The list of suggestions includes:

Glendugo Park, Sylvan Glen Park, Glen Park, Woodland Glen, Oak Crest Park, Verdugo Glen, Grand Central Park, Shady Side Park, Glenwood Park, Patterson Park, Woodland View, Golden State Park, Jewel City Park, Glen Rock Park, Alfvisco Park, Forum Park, Liberty Park, Glendale Park, Jewel Park, Glendale Wonderland Park, Wonderland Park of Glendale, Glendale Municipal Park, Oak Glen, Jewel Glen Park, Verd Glen, East Glen, North Glen, Verdugo Park, Glen Erie, Glenria, Evergreen Park, Victory Park, Sagamore Park, Radio Park, Aztec Park, Ravenna Park, Oakdale, Oakridge, Oakcrest, Oakview, Verdugo Canyon Park, Glendale Vista, Glendale Verdugo Park, Glendale Rustic Glen.

Continued Growth of City Causes Corporation to Plan for Future

A new $50,000 building on the east side of Maryland street between Wilson avenue and Broadway is being planned for the local branch of the Southern California Gas Company.

"Owing to the rapid growth of Glendale and the increased business of the company, it has been found necessary to provide larger quarters," stated William R. Phelon, division manager for the company, in its present quarters at 112 West Broadway.

Mr. Phelon asserted that the new building will be one of the best of its class in the city. Plans for it are now being prepared by the G. Lawrence Stimson company of Pasadena and bids will be called for within the next ten days. As soon as the contract has been let, construction work will commence. The company expects to occupy its new premises on or before January 1st.

Prepare for Additions

The building will be of Class 'B' construction, the roof being supported on reinforced concrete columns and griders; the walls of both exterior and interior are to be of masonry and the sash and doors of steel.

The foundation and columns are being designed for a two-story building. It is anticipated that the growth of the city will require the addition of another story within a few years.

The style of architecture will be semi-Spanish, suggesting the classic rather than the usual ornate type. The columns, cornice and ornamental details will be of architectural terra cotta and the walls and pilasters of stucco and masonry.

Display windows to show some of the newest and best gas appliances as they are put on the market will occupy almost the entire front.

Everything Modern

The interior will be finished in gum wood and the design will be in keeping with that of the exterior.

The frontage on Maryland avenue will be 88 feet. The building will extend back 120 feet. There will be a garage, storeroom, meter proving room, locker rooms, women's rest room and a well-lighted office with ample space for the use of the public with a counter on one side and a large space where various gas appliances will be on exhibition.

Indicating its faith in the continued progress and prosperity of Glendale the Southern California Gas company, as already told in The Glendale Evening News, has set aside about $150,000 to spend on improvements of service in this district. The sum does not include the cost of the proposed new home of the company here. Therefore, the company plans to spend about $200,000 in Glendale during its fiscal year.

Nebraska Court and Hartley Shaw Agree

"The Nebraska Supreme Court and the Glendale city attorney agree!" exclaimed Councilman Dwight W. Stephenson, who presided at last night's session of city offcials.

City Attorney Hartley Shaw's decision condemning restrictions in the value of residences to be erected in certain districts was mentioned for the enlightenment of Councilman C. E. Kimlin, who was absent when the report was filed. Mr. Kimlin produced a newspaper clipping from an Omaha newspaper, which he read en route east. This contained a similar report from the Supreme Court of Nebraska.

VIOLET IS MISSING

"Oh where, Oh where has my little dog gone?" Dr. Jessie Russell of 108 South Brand boulevard has reported the loss of "Violet," her pedigreed white Airedale. It is believed to have been stolen and the finger of infamy has been pointed at a small boy who passed along the alley yesterday morning.

WEST SIDE BODY IS ORGANIZED LAST NIGHT

Improvement of Patterson Avenue Under Discussion by Association

The West Glendale Improvement Association was organized last night at the Columbus school for the purpose of taking an active interest in the affairs of the city and especially in improvements affecting the west side.

Officers elected for the new organization are: A. S. Finlay, president; V. C. Anderson, vice president; W. W. Parker, treasurer. Members of the executive committee are Mrs. Kate Fennell, Mrs. H. H. Parker, Mrs. Mildred Postle, Frank Leslie, Ed D. P. Hennis, Neal Cronnan and E. W. Gilliland.

The improvement of Patterson avenue was one of the principal topics of discussion. It was recommended that this project should be divided into two separate parts.

First, the opening of Patterson avenue between San Fernando road and Central avenue, and, second, the widening of Patterson avenue between Central avenue and Brand boulevard.

Select Meeting Date

By this means, property owners in the vicinity thought they would avoid the necessity of paying for the whole improvement at the same time while they could be given a more accurate estimate of the cost of each of these two actions.

About forty-five persons attended the initial meeting of the organization. They decided to meet the second Tuesday of each month at the Columbus school.

Large Water Main Asked From Council

A petition for a larger water main on Virginia place was submitted at last night's session of the city council. It was referred to Peter Dieterich, superintendent of the water plant, and C. L. Hill, city engineer, to draft the necessary proceedings.

"At the present time," it states, "we have a two-inch main which does not supply us sufficient water for our requirements. We hope you will be able to give us some relief at an early date."

Signers were W. G. Stratrof, Florence Louise Bachman, J. Fallan, Mrs. Mary E. Redmond, Mrs. D. N. Cramp, Charles E. Patterson, Miss M. Emma Saxton, Roy W. Biddlecom, Abby L. Gross, Harvey M. Gill and Robert Gerth. All are residents of Virginia place.

Mr. and Mrs. Peirce Give Dinner-Dance

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Peirce of 317 West Pine street entertained with a very delightful dinner-dance Tuesday night at the Los Angeles Athletic club. Covers were laid for sixteen and the party included Mr. and Mrs. George Duffet, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff Paull and daughter Edna, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Slatter, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Waite, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Peirce, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Peirce and daughter Patricia.

LITTLE ACCOMPLISHED

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 28.—Prospects of getting coal out of the unionized bituminous fields of Southewestern Pennsylvania by use of strikebreakers failed to brighten today. Spasmodic attempts made yesterday to resume production upon troop protection, it was claimed, accomplished little in lessening the coal famine menace.

ROTARY CLUB SEES VALLEY SUPPLY CO. PLANT

V. M. Hollister Is Host to Organization Members Following Luncheon

A trip through the plant of the Valley Supply company at Maryland and Wilson avenues was a feature of the meeting yesterday noon of the Glendale Rotary club. Lunch was served at the Chamber of Commerce hall, and after the business meeting and a few short talks by members, the Rotarians adjourned to the supply company where V. M. "Val" Hollister showed them through the plant.

Clarence A. Redmond told the Rotarians of his recent trip through the east, on which he evidently visited every city of any note east of the Mississippi. Business is very dull there, he stated, and conditions are even worse than he had been led to believe before going.

"After all," he finished, "I was glad to get back to Glendale, for there's no place like it."

John C. Stannard of the Alameda Rotary club was a visitor at the meeting and told a little of the work of the organization and its progress there.

Boys Are Discussed

In the absence of President Roy L. Kent, Vice President George B. Karr, presiding, brought up the subject of the vacation camp for boys, who, without the aid of the Rotary club, might have no chance to go on a camping trip. This brought on considerable discussion, but it was finally decided that other things might be done for the boys which they would enjoy and appreciate more than a short trip to Catalina, especially since the city's new swimming pool is soon to open.

William A. Tanner was called upon to tell of the charter presentation and social evening of the Kiwanis club on Wednesday. He outlined the features of the evening, and spoke of the attendance of Rotarians who had been invited. The spirit of the Kiwanis delegation from Fullerton was also commented upon.

The need for more inter-city visiting was mentioned, and the trip to Burbank brought up as an example of the friendly spirit which is occasioned by such visits.

The meeting was then turned over to V. M. Hollister, owner of

A delightful bridge luncheon was given yesterday afternoon at the Mary Louise Tea room in Los Angeles by Miss Hester Nelson of 1303 North Brand boulevard, Glendale, complimentary to Mrs. B. G. Carpenter of Peoria, Ill., and her sister, Miss Beth Nelson, who is to be married to Mrs. Carpenter's son, Kenneth Carpenter, Saturday evening.

The tea room was effectively decorated in bouquets of flowers in shades of lavender and pink and tied with the same color tulle. The luncheon table was set in the private dining room for nine. After a three-course luncheon bridge was played.

ADVOCATES OF OIL STATION VICTORS OVER PROTEST

City Council Grants Right to Property Owner for Gas Filling Station

Southern Glendale is to have a new gasoline filling station. William Green of 129 West Windsor road has been issued a permit to establish one on the northeast corner of Los Feliz road and Central avenue.

The issuance of this permit was protested by a number of property owners in the vicinity who said that the district was well supplied with filling stations and that this one would be detrimental to their interests.

Among the protestants were the following: Edward R. Best, Mary J. Rice, Samuel E. Myers, G. H. Seal, Emma K. Gallup, Mary J. Rich, D. Seal, Elizabeth Haynes, P. Oswald, Jennett Higgs, Augusta Anderson, Mrs. Mary A. McLean, G. H. McLean, Hattie Tiffany, Mrs. Cornelia Augustus, Mrs. J. S. Ripley, D. A. Gallup, I. J. Dewey, Elizabeth C. Ellias, C. E. Dodge, L. E. Myers, Lucille M. Bullis, C. C. Rittenhouse, James F. Mentzer, L. C. Haynes, Charles Hipp, George W. Todd, A. L. Baucroft, George F. Schmoll.

Eight filling stations are established in the neighborhood, according to an attached memorandum These are located at the following places: San Fernando road and San Fernando court, Los Feliz and San Fernando roads, 1416 San Fernando road, San Fernando road and Central avenue, San Fernando road and Ealalia avenue, San Fernando road and Cerritos street, Los Feliz road and Gardena avenue and Los Feliz road and Brand boulevard.

Although the application for a permit had been approved by Fire Chief A. H. Lankford and City Manager W. H. Reeves, E. G. Spaulding, superintendent of the building department, thought best to refer the matter to last night's session of the city council.

George W. Anderson of 129 W. Windsor road addressed the council in behalf of his brother, Charles B. Anderson of St. Paul, Minnesota, who paid $5750 for the corner with the strict understanding that it was business property. Mr. Anderson called attention that the lot would not be worth a third of this amount if it could only be used for residential purposes. He said that the property had been leased to a nephew, William Green, who had ordered much of the necessary equipment for the filling station already.

Dwight W Stephenson said that, although many of the protesants are neighbors of his, he did not see why the permit should be denied inasmuch as they had not protested against the creation of a commercial district in the vicinity. He called attention to the fact that it is not up to the city council to regulate competition. Councilmen C. E. Kimlin and A. H. Lapham agreed that there was no reason for withholding the permit.

The new filling station is to be one of the most attractive in Glendale, according to Mr. Green. It is to be built in Mission style. Even the oil pumps will be operated by compressed air.

Sheppy Back After 9 Days Adventuring

"Sheppy," the treasured pet dog belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lundregan of 308 East Maple avenue, who left his happy home nine days ago, in search of the great adventure, is happy in his own yard once more.

The first trace of the wanderer was found at the end of six days through a clasified ad in The Glendale Evening News which caught the eye of a woman on North Central avenue, after she had notified the police and Sheppy was on his way to the dog pound. When the anxious owners reached the pound, they found that Sheppy had escaped the officer, while in transit. Three more days of searching and a call to the police yesterday, from a home on North Central, near the wash, asking them to remove a strange dog, soon resulted in landing Sheppy in his own quarters. He is painfully thin as a result of his travels, as he refused to take food from anyone.

No Concessions to Be Leased In Park

No concessions are to be leased this season at the new municipal park, according to a decision reached last night in the committee of the whole by the city council.

City Manager W. H. Reeves reported that he had a large number of applications from persons who desired to operate concessions there, many of whom offered their services to the city as park custodians.

After some discussion, members of the council agreed that it was extremely desirable that all refreshments sold in the park should be sold at a low cost. It was thought possible that they might be dispensed under the direction of a city employe next season. For the remainder of this season it was decided that no concessions should be leased.

NEW FIRE ENGINE CALLED OUT FOR GRASS FIRE

Chemicals Used to Subdue Blaze on Sierra Vista Avenue, Eagle Rock

For the first time since its purchase, the new chemical equipment on Eagle Rock's shining fire engine was used yesterday afternoon when a grass fire broke out on South Sierra Vista avenue, Eagle Rock.

Someone started twisting the siren, and the wail could be heard for blocks. For some reason, however, neither Motorcycle Officer Harry Williams nor Fire Marshal Claude Bramble heard the siren.

Deputy Marshal Saurborn of Saurborn's auto repair shop, 165 West Park avenue, Eagle Rock, rushed over to the garage where the fire truck is housed and started for the fire with the new Reo. Herbie Werden accompanied him on the wild ride.

Flames Extinguished

Arriving at the small grass fire on South Sierra Vista avenue, the valiant fighters, it is said, used one portable chemical fire extinguisher and one tank of the chemical apparatus to subdue the flames.

After the machine had been brought back to the city hall, it was up to Marshal Bramble and Officer Williams to refill the chemical tanks. Unfortunately, Williams got some of the chemical on his uniform. Harry is always having trouble with his uniform, anyway.

"I wish people would use some discretion in putting out fires," stated Williams, ruefully surveying his spotted uniform. "The proper way to put out a grass fire is with a shovel."

Frost Bitten, But Alive Sacramento Seems Sour "Turning to the Left" Towns of Yesterday

By Gil A. Cowan

At Tahoe, Wednesday Morning.

FROST-BITTEN, but alive, this is being dashed off while the motor is warming up in this truly mountain camp on the banks of Lake Tahoe.

Summer is the only season here and it is not unlike Southern California winters. The trouble it takes to get to Tahoe seems hardly worth it until you see the sunset on the lake, it is said, for we missed that sight by a few minutes and are heading out this morning for Carson City, Nev., and thence home by the Mono Lake country and Owens Valley.

Carson City is the second state capital to be visited as Sacramento has been seen to satisfaction. The sight explains some laws and gives one an interesting insight as to why Southern California ought to have its own capital.

No one in Sacramento, seemingly, knows of Glendale and the mention of Los Angeles makes them look sour. In other words, we do not think much of the capital city, although it has more business from the back country than expected.

The next place visited on this vacation trip was Folsom, the city where the great tragedy of "turning to the left," or wrong road is noted in the state penitentiary.

Incidentally, we turned to the left and got on the wrong road getting out and so we got our dinner late at Placerville. It seemed as though the last place is that—the outpost of civilization.

It is a mining center, this quaint little western city and time surely will obliterate it except for a cowman's trading center and tourists' retreat. For other places along the way have shared such a fate and it is dreary to pass through towns of yesterday.

There are no state highways leading into the mountains out of Placerville so we shall eliminate the high spots of a beautiful trip which a driver doesn't enjoy along the American river's forks which have yielded millions in gold. That is another story, however.

Campers and summer cottages in the big trees of El Dorado county make the woods seem alive with people, while the squirrels seem to be enjoying themselves also.

So far I have seen no one from Glendale although my old friend, Fred Tegeler, is one of the managers of the hotel here. He sets a good table and has comfortable cabins for a crowd. However, this is no ad for him as he is away.

Series of Teas to Furnish Rest Room

The first of a series of silver teas for the purpose of securing funds to purchase materials for furnishing the teachers' rest room at the Acacia street school was given yesterday afternoon by the Mothers' club, P. T. A., of that school, Mrs. E. W. Evans, president, at the home of Mrs. Robert Lord, 1270 South Boynton street. The second of the series will be held next Thursday at the home of Mrs. H. L. Mitchell, 1241 South Boynton street. At yesterday's meeting Mrs. Edwin Strong was appointed as finance chairman and a committee chosen to select materials for the rest room.

New Awnings Are on Business Houses

All the business establishments located in the new McDonald block on East Colorado boulevard, Eagle Rock, just east of Central avenue, now have awnings hung in front of their place of business. The awning ordered by the Eagle Rock Daily News some time ago was delivered and hung yesterday, and this improvement is not only a decided relief from the rays of the sun, but also adds to the attractiveness of the building.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Advertisement.

LONGER SKIRTS, IS DAME FASHION'S FINAL DECREE

Mrs. Earl Pendroy, Now In New York; Writes of Demands of Style

Whether the American women will be content to wear "them" longer cannot even be guessed at. However, Dame Fashion decrees that skirts shall be longer and, according to Mrs. Earl Pendroy, who is shopping in New York city for Pendroy's store, they're doing it in the east, she writes.

"The blow has been dealt the fair sex. They must wear them longer, especially for evening. The accepted length for daytime wear is from six to eight inches, but for social and evening affairs they are from six inches to the length of dragging. The waist seems to be the much-traveled affair. The question is, where has it not been? From the Empire line it has dropped to the hips, where fashion decrees it must rest for a while. How long no one knows. The sleeves have developed a will to freedom and do just as they please. They are long, short, or not at all.

"The first and most predominating color is black, then comes navy, followed by some beautiful new fall shades, such as brown, fawn, falow and martin, followed by koran, a new dark red shade; almond green, rose, mauve, grey and buttercup yellow will also have their place on the color card. Only a few blues are shown other than navy.

"Suits are lovely. The strictly tailored suit comes first, followed by the fur-trimmed and embroidered. There seems to be little change in the materials used for these garments, twill cord, tricotine, duvet de lain and marline in shades of navy, black, brown, falon and martin. The skirts are not very full only in the extreme garment, which of course will be on the flare line. The jackets are very long, which accentuates the long line silhouette.

"Coats are of many styles. The wrappy cloak for the dressy affair, which are made of beautiful materials and some lined throughout with fur, but for general wear the staple coat is still with us in lengths from short to extremely long, made of marline, evora and gerona, yalama, arabelle and chantille.

"Hats! They are the most fascinating because this season they are in such beautiful colors and then, too, those lovely soft, hangy sort of feathers are to be worn. They are made of peacock, the flue stripped and made into graceful trimmings, and for the long lines we are to have the beautiful large hat, some with drooping brims, others irregular. Shapes that give the chic, smart look to the plainest costumes. Hatters' plush is playing a large role in the early showing, as is metallic cloth. Panne and silk velvet is also the everlasting standby."

Herbert Lalley Tells About Camp Life

An interesting letter telling of the camp life at the National Guard encampment in Monterey which is being held for two weeks was received by The Glendale Evening News today from Herbert Lalley, an employe of the mechanical department of this newspaper.

Young Lalley is a member of Company M, California National Guard, and left Glendale to go on the two-week encampment last week. "Skinning mules" is the bane of existence in camp, according to Lalley, but there are many joys to offset this task, such as boxing and wrestling bouts, musical entertainments and fishing.

Everyone is enjoying the encampment and the company was taken out on the range to see the machine guns in action for the first time last Monday. Drilling is part of the daily program and Lalley bewails the fact that he is not an officer, as he states that it is pretty soft for them riding horses while the "buck privates" walk and lead the mules, but the weather is cool and Lalley remarks that he is thankful for small favors.

When all is said and done, Lalley believes every one will be well satisfied with what they have accomplished in camp. The encampment will end this week.

Statue Is Stolen From Noted Museum

PARIS — "Now, ladies an' gents, follow me and you'll see a valu'ble gilded statuette of Louis the Fourteenth. This statue——"

But the "seeing Versailles" party looked in vain. The guide looked, too, and rubbed his eyes in astonishment.

Attendants at the Versailles Palace, hastily summoned, could not explain the mystery. It is believed that the statuette was stolen during the noon hour, but attendants assert the room had not been left unwatched. The statuette was wrenched from its pedestal.

Old guides at the palace say the little art-work was placed in the room it occupied—Louis XIV's sleeping apartment — by King Louis Philippe about 1835 and has never been disturbed since.

Executive Board of P.-T. A. Visits Beach

Mrs. John Robert White of 347 North Orange street entertained the members of the executive board of the Glendale federation of Parent-Teacher associations, who served under her direction last year, with a beach party and luncheon at her summer cottage at Hermosa beach yesterday. Those present included Mrs. R. C. Horner, Mrs. A. T. Wintersgill, Mrs. P. Diederich, Mrs. Pierson Hanning, Mrs. P. O. Lucas, Mrs. H. V. Brown, Mrs. A. H. Brown, Mrs. P. J. Priaulx, Mrs. E. S. McKee, Mrs. Wm. Alexander, Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. B. L. Cline, Mrs. W. H. Dotson, Mrs. Mae Rosenberg and the hostess, Mrs. White.

Local Postoffice Is Open Night and Day

Beginning last night, the Glendale postoffice inaugurated the practise of keeping its doors open twenty-fonr hours each day, putting itself in the same class as offices in the largest cities. From now on, according to Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, the public may enter the office at any hour of the day or night to mail letters or get mail from lock boxes.

The window hours will be the same. The registry, stamp, parcel post and general delivery windows will be open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m., the money order department being open between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

By keeping its doors open after the window hours, the office is made available for those who are unable to go there for their mail during the day, since the lock boxes will be accessible.

Glendale Personals

Mrs. Ruby Wayne of 115 West Elk avenue entertained with a party recently in honor of Carl Eckre. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cafford, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Eckre, Mr. and Mrs. G. Beal, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Anderson, Miss Laura Anderson, Miss Marion Anderson, Miss Marguerite Hock, Florence Mutgie, Carl Eckre, Raymond Hurd and Leroy Beedy.

NOTICE TO VOTERS!

A number of Republican citizens of Glendale have expressed a desire to vote for our esteemed citizen, Mattison B. Jones, at the primaries.

There are certain legal requirements necessary to accomplish this, in the case where registration has been made as Republican.

It is necessary for all Republicans desiring to vote for Mr. Jones, who have stated their party affiliations to re-register as Democrats.

The ballot is made void when the voter writes in the name of a candidate for governor or other office on the wrong ballot—for instance, a Republican would void his entire ballot if he wrote in the name of Mr. Jones (a Democratic candidate.) The purpose would not be accomplished and the entire ballot would be made void, invalidating the voter's choice for other offices.

Any voter desiring to re-register in order to support Mr. Jones must do so on or before Saturday evening, July 29.—Advertisement. 7-27-28

'Step On It' Is Attraction Being Offered Tonight at Glendale Theatre

Mystery, romance, typically western action and the punch of a plot from the pen of Courtney Ryley Cooper are combined in the Universal special attraction, "Step On It," in which Hoot Gibson will be seen at the Glendale theatre tonight.

All of Southern California, Arizona and Nevada were combed for proper scenic backgrounds for "Step On It," the setting of which is laid in a section of Colorado which couldn't be reached by a motion picture outfit unless two or three mountain ranges were moved out bodily and a good map made of the whole section.

Of course Hoot Gibson plays the stellar role of Vic Collins and the story of the picture goes something like this: Vic Collins was a typical rancher and hated hoss thieves as bad as any.

Falls In Love

However, he fell in love with "Miss Hamilton of Kansas City," a newcomer in the western community, and stayed in love with her in spite of pretty strong convictions that she was the head of a "rustlin' gang" stealing hundreds of cattle. He just naturally couldn't believe the evidence of his eyes, even when she hit him over the head with a gun butt while he was battling with a man he knew to be a cattle stealer

He depended a lot on Lafe Brownell, horse thief catcher from Texas, to round up the gang, and Brownell told him Miss Hamilton was implicated. Catching a thief making love to the girl, seeing her with the gang several times and then facing her and seeing her smile as he was marked "next to be shot" by the gang, were some of the ways in which his faith was tested. She finally came into the clear and he won hands down and hearts up.

MYSTERY OVER TREATIES

TOKIO, July 28.—An air of suspicious mystery surrounds the Washington treaties situation. The statement of the foreign office that "Japan is delaying action in order to co-operate with other powers in acceptance of the treaties," is taken to indicate that Japan is looking toward London for action before finally approving the treaties here.

HIRAM W. JOHNSON REAL LEADER IN TARIFF FIGHT

Senior Senator Is Deserving of Complete Credit for His Achievements

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—"As a friend of Senator Johnson's it is difficult to be silent when I observe the unjust effort being made by his political opponents to deprive him of deserved credit for his great tariff victory in the pending bill," said Meyer Lissner today.

"Having just come from Washington, where my relations with Senator Johnson gave me full opportunity to know what he was doing and the fight he was making, I do not hesitate to say that it is the rankest injustice to attempt to withhold from the senator, the fullest credit for his tariff achievements.

"Of course, other members of the California delegation assisted, but Johnson's was the laboring oar. He took a particular pride in showing the people of this state, and especially southern Californians, what he could do on the tariff issue. He worked practically day and night for months, studying, arguing, conferring, corresponding, 'wire pulling, if you please, using every bit of his tremendous influence with his colleagues in committee and on the floor, to make votes for higher schedules than those contained in the House Bill. In short, he went the limit of his power, and the result speaks for itself.

Deserves Full Credit

"The fullest credit for his remarkable achievement is accorded Senator Johnson, not alone by the members of the California delegation, in both parties, but by the leading and responsible representatives of producers' associations throughout the state, none of whom, so far as I am aware, has been so ungracious as to deny the senator the credit that is his. In fact, the officers of the Growers' and Commercial associations have been practically unanimous in singing Hiram Johnson's praises both publicly and in personal letters to him.

"In this connection it is significant that the Democratic newspapers and free trade organs of the east, in repeated editorials, have commented upon the fact that California has obtained higher protective duties upon its principal products than any other state in the union, and in a tone of derogation have attributed these lofty schedules to the persistent influence of Senator Johnson and his incessant work before the Senate Finance committee. It is almost amusing to find the senator's enemies here denying him credit for tariff achievements which the antagonistic press of the east, animated by altogether different motives, eagerly characterizes as the direct fruit of his efforts.

"How unfortunate it is that the exigency of a political campaign will prompt managers at times to be so unfair and ungenerous in the face of a great achievement."

Michigan Governor Issues Coal Demand

LANSING, Mich., July 28.—Governor Alex J. Groesbeck has challenged the federal government today to supply Michigan with coal.

In a message to Herbert Hoover the governor promises the federal government use of all state agencies for the enforcement of provisions for coal distribution to prevent profiteering.

"It is all fine talk," said the governor this morning, "but what Michigan wants is the coal."

$16 DAILY WAGE AND IMPOSSIBLE TO FIND MEN

Glendale Industry Has Good Jobs Open; Long Training Gains Experience

A wage scale of $16 a day and impossible to get skilled men to accept a job!

Such is the condition at the Tropico Potteries just south of the Glendale city limits at Los Feliz Road.

"The difficulty in the terra cotta department is not in getting orders, but in getting trained men," asserted F. M. Davids, general manager of this local concern. "All of our modelers are artists and have had a long training. There are not many of them in this country. We have sent as far east as Chicago and as far north as Seattle. Of course we have secured some men, but we haven't been able to get as many as we could use. I recently made a trip to Detroit especially to employ modelers, but was unable to get a single one. We pay $15 or $16 for eight hours' work. This is more than the regular union scale."

Only Few Companies

Although samples of terra cotta in perfect preservation have been found in the ruins of Babylon, Nineveh and Pompeii, the making of terra cotta for commercial purposes is a comparatively new industry. Mr. Davids estimated that the oldest of the twenty-six companies now getting the entire business in this country was not over fifty years old.

The few companies in the field help to explain the scarcity of skilled labor in the opinion of Mr. Davids. He called attention to the fact that many of the experienced modelers in this country secured their training in Germany under the apprentice system.

Much difficulty is experienced by the Tropico potteries in securing competent draughtsmen who are willing to train themselves for terra cotta designing. Although this company pays much higher wages than draughtsmen can obtain elsewhere, high school graduates seem to prefer to get into architectural offices where they can look forward to becoming full fledged architects themselves some day—in spite of the fact that not one case in twenty ever does so.

Want 'High Brow' Work

Another reason why it is difficult to get modelers, according to Mr. Davids, is because the thousands of art school graduates in this country all want to do "high brow" work and turn up their noses at commercial work. He laughingly remarked that young artists would be able to make enough in ten years at modeling to maintain Bohemian studios for the rest of their lives.

The making of terra cotta at the Tropico Potteries was started three years ago with one workman, Charles Ulrich, who had had experience in a San Francisco plant and is now head of the local terra cotta department.

The average monthly sale of terra cotta at the Tropico potteries now amounts to about $30,000. This sum would be much larger if sufficient skilled workmen could be employed.

"We are developing the use of terra cotta for smaller buildings," asserted Mr. Davids. "Eight or ten years ago the only buildings which used terra cotta were large office buildings. Terra cotta can be used in any building of brick or masonry construction. Architects are now specifying terra cotta for places which they never thought its use practical before."

Cheaper Than Granite

Because of the possibility of making many units of terra cotta from one mould, it is much cheaper than granite or marble although it has been found almost as durable. So far as known terra cotta is practically indestructible.

A number of handsome buildings are now being ornamented with Tropico terra cotta. A colored frieze for the new Jensen building on North Brand boulevard will be fastened into place before long. Extensive work is now being done for the Bank of Italy at Seventh and Olive streets, Los Angeles, for the First Methodist church of Los Angeles. Terra cotta has been furnished for the Pomona and Long Beach Y. M. C. A. buildings, the Long Beach city hall, the boys' dormitory at the University of Arizona, the State Bank of El Paso, the Merchants National Bank building, Los Angeles, the Stowell hotel, Los Angeles, the Corporation building, Los Angeles, the Arnold auto show room at Seventh and Figueroa streets, Los Angeles, and the Wilshire Presbyterian church.

CHARTER CHANGES SUGGESTED TO CITY COUNCIL

Attorney Bert P. Woodard, in Communication, Proposes Amendments

Attorney Bert P. Woodard, who served as president of the board of freeholders when the charter under which the city of Glendale is now operating was drafted, filed a communication with the city council last night in which he made several suggestions regarding changes in the instrument. His communication follows:

"Gentlemen—At the time the charter of the city of Glendale was prepared and submitted to the people, it was recognizzed by the board of freeholders who drew the same, that it would probably need amending from time to time. It has now been in operation since the election of your honorable board, something over a year ago, and I feel sure that your experience in managing the affairs of the city under the charter for that length of time, has placed you in a position to know what provisions thereof should be amended.

"It is possible that the provisions in Section 10, of Article VI. of the charter, might be amended to advantage. This section is the section providing that a revolving fund may be created by a bond issue for the purpose of financing the costs of public work for which the city may be the lowest bidder, and also conferring upon the council the power to provide by ordinance, a complete procedure whereby the city may bid in all public work done under the provisions of any local ordinance or resolution. Section 6, Article XXIII., also dealing with the power of the council to adopt procedure ordinances, might be made a little more definite.

Limit of Tax Rate

"A great deal has also been said about the limitation of the tax rate fixed in the charter for any one year at not exceeding 1 per cent of the assessed valuation and it is possible that this limitation should be extended.

"The question of the power of the council to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of a former city treasurer arose at the time of his resignation, when it was found that no direct authority was conferred upon the council to name his successor. The charter should be amended so as to specifically confer upon the council the power to fill such vacancies.

"The charter does not provide for an assistant city attorney and it might be advisable to propose an amendment which would provide for the appointment of such assistant, rather than to have him derive his authority from an ordinance.

Salary of Councilmen

"To my mind the salary of $10 for each meeting of the council attended, not to exceed six meetings in each month, is not enough to be paid the councilmen for their services. Glendale is now a large city, even larger than we thought it would be a year ago and a councilman should be better compensated for the time and energy expended and the responsibility assumed.

"The constitution of the state under which the charter was framed, provides that the charter may be amended by proposals therefor submitted by the legislative body of the city on its own motion, or by petition signed by 15 per cent of the registered electors, and that such proposals shall be submitted to the electors only during the six months next preceding a regular session of the legislature or thereafter and before the final adjournment of that session.

Avoid 'Mad Rush'

"You are in position to, and I believe will, propose any amendment thereto which would, in your judgment be advantageous to the city, rather than to expect the same to be presented by petition signed by 15 per cent of the registered electors. There are elections which will occur during the six months next preceding the regular session of the next legislature, at which elections such proposed amendments could be submitted, and the object of this letter is to call to your attention a few of the provisions of the charter which have been questioned since its adoption, in order that time enough may be had to give the whole matter due consideration and to present such proposed amendments as may be deemed advisable, without a mad rush to get them through before the next legislature meets and adjourns.

"If I can be of service in the matter in any way, I will be glad to do so, and I am confident that the entire membership of the board of freeholders, who drew the charter, will also be glad to co-operate with you and render any service they can.

"Respectfully,
"BERT P. WOODARD."

Centenary Tree Gets Treatment by Doctor

ATLANTA, Go.—After weathering several centuries what is declared to be the oldest and the largest sassafras tree in existence, is receiving first aid from a tree surgeon.

The tree, which measures about nine feet in circumference, stands on the lawn of the First Methodist church here.

Recently it began to show signs of old age, and the board of stewards of the church employed the tree specialist.

Statistics on Coal Figured by Board

WASHINGTON—Taking a few of the larger districts for specific illustration the federal trade commission finds that the average investment per ton for the mining of coal is $4.26 in the southwest Pennsylvania district; $3.04 per ton in the central Pennsylvania district; $3.40 per ton in the Kanawa, W. Va., district; $2.65 per ton in the Ohio No. 8 district; $2.21 per ton in the Kentucky No. 1 district; $1.94 per ton in the Illinois No. 3 district; $1.44 per ton in the Indiana No. 1 district; $4.79 per ton in the Colorado domestic district; and $8.32 per ton in the Utah district.

The commission tells congress: "In order to use this information on investment properly it is also necessary to have accurate and sufficient comprehensive information regarding current costs of production, selling prices and margins of profit per ton. In the use of such cost and profit data it is equally important to recognize the wide variations not only in the average costs of production prices and profits of different mining districts, but also to take due account of the often wide differences in costs and profits for the individual mining operations in a particular district. The nature and extent of the cost variations within each district in 1918 were set forth in elaborate statistical detail in previously published reports of the commission on the costs of production of bituminous coal."

ENGLISH EXPERTS SEE BIG DANGER IN AIR ATTACK

Claims German Has Bombs for Future; Claimed to Be Most Deadly

LONDON, July 28.—"England is today at the mercy of the first hostile power that chooses to attack her from the air!"

Such is the cry of warning being insistently sounded by armament experts in the London press.

A former member of the Allied Commission to Germany has publicly declared that that country is now armed with incendiary and poison-gas bombs which in one raid "would paralyze the very heart of the British empire and bring horrible death to most of London's citizens. The bombs to which I refer exist now, at this moment, and, were war declared could and would be used tomorrow.

"Any power may use them at any moment. So small and light are they that thousands of them could be carried by an average-sized commercial airplane. A fleet of airplanes would carry sufficient to set all London afire, past any hope of saving.

So grave is the menace alleged from the "pitiful inadequacy" of England's air force, that pressure is being brought to bear upon the government by the proponents of aerial preparedness. Editorial writers are devoting columns to the situation in the great national dailies.

Some military experts declare that, in defiance of the treaty of Versailes, the Germans are secretly manufacturing tons of fire and gas bombs. These terrible engines of death and destruction, say officials who have examined some of those confiscated in Germany, are a thousand times more deadly than the most vivid imaginings of fiction. They are of two kinds, incendiary and poison gas.

Incendiary Bombs

The incendiary bombs are in the form of metal cylinders, about nine inches long and two inches in diameter. They weigh less than a pound apiece. The cylinder is made of a metal called elektron, considerably lighter and stronger than aluminum. The composition of this metal is a closely guarded German secret. The bombs are filled with a powder called thermite, which ignites when the bomb strikes the ground. The thermite and elektron then fuse together and form an incandescent mass of white-hot metal that will melt its way through armour plating. Nothing can extinguish it. A pinch of the powder ignited on a penknife blade caused the metal to run like candle wax.

The poison gas bomb, even more terrible than the fire bomb, is simply a glass globe, four inches in diameter, filled with a dark brown liquid, generates thousands of cubic feet of deadly gas. Escape from its death-dealing fumes which are able to penetrate even into cellars, basements and underground railways, would be impossible.

It is stated here that just before the Armistice the German high cimmand openly boasted that the perfection of the elektron bomb gave them the means to successfully end the war. British threats of retaliation in kind were the only deterrent to the carrying out the boast.

England's Threat

"If the English secret service had not discovered that the Germans were making these bombs," say the public men now fighting for the re-establishment of England's lost ascendanacy in the air, "London or Paris might have been annihilated by a single flotilla of bombing planes.

"It was only our threat to destroy a German town for every such bomb dropped in England—and the ability of our air forces to back up that threat—that gave us the whip hand.

"Now that our air force has sunk into such dangerous inferiority we no longer have that whip hand. We must lose no time in regaining it. The nation's safety demands instant action on the part of the government."

For twelve years a Florida farmer has raised watermelons for seed on 1,000 acres. In all that time he has never shipped a melon but let them spoil in the fields except those he and his neighbors eat.

Male Dress Reform Prevails In London

LONDON—A male dress reform is in full swing in London.

Sticklers for correct dress are now striving to displace dinner jackets for evening wear and insist upon males appearing at evening functions in full evening dress.

What with the London's predilection for silk-hatted business attire, and frock-coated afternoon attire, and correct river dress, and grey topper racing garb, and "plus four" golfing outfits, it looks like dire days for those who haven't a wardrobe.

American male visitors to London, however, are shocking the natives and demonstrating their freedom from the slavery of clothes by wearing "civilized garments."

CITIZEN ARMY FOR EMERGENCY USE IS PLANNED

Attempt Will Be Made to Interest Professionals In Proposed Work

By HARRY L. ROGERS
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 28.—Interpreting the National Defense Act as meaning that the major strength of the American defense system shall lie with a great well-trained body of citizen officers and soldiers, the war department is making a special effort to interest professional men and those whose training and experience particularly qualify them for certain technical branches of the army.

It is the intention of the department to commission as many as possible of these men in the officers reserve corps, where it is hoped to be able to give them sufficient knowledge of the rudiments of military training to enable them to fit into the army organization, while at the same time putting to the best use of the army particular knowledge they possess by reason of their vocations in civil life.

Among the professional men the department hopes to interest in the officers' reserve corps are engineers, who naturally would be assigned to the corps of engineers; lawyers, for the judge advocate general's department; doctors, for the medical corps; dentists, for the dental corps; electrical engineers and electricians, for the signal corps, and various other specialists for the staff specialists' officers' reserve corps.

Publicity Work

For example, it is pointed out that various literary organizations of the country include in their membership leading authors, artists, journalists, cartoonists and screen writers. Many of these men did valuable propaganda and publicity work for preparedness and Americanism before and during the World War. Such men, it is believed, would make efficient and useful officers of the Staff Specialists' section in case of national emergency, and while on inactive status would voluntarily give the army desirable publicity through the press and screen.

The American people are "sold" the war department believes, on almost everything except the army, and if they were taught more about the real aims and functions of the army they and their representatives in Congress would be far more friendly toward it.

Maintains Position

Despite criticism in the House of Representatives and elsewhere, Secretary of War Weeks has not receded from his position that the public needs information concerning the policy of the war department and that army officers and war department officials are the proper persons to furnish it.

Neither has he receded from the stand that army officers who wish to criticize the administration policy should resign from the army before making their criticisms.

"Certainly we shall encourage army officers to give the people information concerning the activities of the Department," the secretary said. "It also is certain that we shall expect their public addresses or statements to be of a favorable nature. That is no more than the average business concern would expect of its employes."

If this constitutes "muzzling of army officers," or a "drift toward Prussianism," as has been charged, the secretary intimated, he is ready to take the responsibility.

Domestic Coinage In U. S. Takes Drop

WASHINGTON — Total domestic coinage of the United States during the fiscal year just ended fell off by more than 350,000,000 pieces as compared with the previous year, according to a summary of operations issued by the United States mint. During the fiscal year 1922 there were 105,996,175 coins turned out, with a value of $145,712,742, against 462,420,140 coins, worth $38,586,540 in 1921.

Coinage of gold pieces and standard silver dollars increased, but the output of the subsidiary coins declined heavily, officials explained, because the treasury has a large stock of these coins which the banks, on account of business conditions, have not been absorbing, and also because the mints have returned to the pre-war basis of operating on an eight-hour day.

Gold coinage amounted to 2,659,516 pieces worth $53,000,016, while no gold was coined in 1921. Standard silver dollars coined totaled 92,388,473, against 19,043,000 in 1921.

quarters or dimes coined during

There were no half dollars, the year just closed, while in the previous year there were about 8,000,000 dimes coined. During 1922 there were 1,447,000 5-cent pieces and 9,181,000 pennies coined as against 60,448,000 5-cent pieces and 313,207,000 pennies in 1921.

PHONES FRIGHTEN REDMEN WHEN FIRST USED

Chief of Indians Had Hard Time Convincing Tribe Concerning Merits

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 28.—Oklahoma is now a commonwealth of rapidly growing cities and of unresting progress. The telephone enters as an absolute essential into every operation of its vigorous life. In 1886, however, Oklahoma was still the semi-foreign demense of a number of Indian nations. Intrusion into their lands the white man had renounced by sacred treaties. Among these was the Cherokee nation, whose tribal legislature at Tahlequah embodied in their statutes the tribal wishes, customs and ideals.

The progressive element among the Cherokees was strong Some of them at Tahlequah were anxious to provide some more rapid means of communication with outer American civilization than horseback. Muskogee, miles away, was the nearest telegraph station. Extending the telegraph line to Tahlequah had been considered and abandoned as entirely impractical and too expensive, when word of a new miraculous device called the telephone was rumored about. Five telephones were ordered at frontier prices, $75 each. Iron wire was bought at 12 cents a pound and insulators at 7 cents apiece.

Wire Couldn't Talk!

But the Cherokee legislature was controlled by unprogressive full-blooded Indians, who were violently opposed to anything that suggested the encroachment of the white man. Where wires went, railroads always followed, was their implicit belief and experience. Besides, "a wire could not talk, anyway!" So there was a demonstration conducted before the legislature. Three full-blooded Indians handled the instruments—Sargeyas, Talaki and Westuxula—while the other members crowded around them to "see the wire talk" not merely in English, but, wonder of red man wonders, in Cherokee. A wire that could talk Cherokee at the attempt could not be dangerous, would not betray them into the hands of the advancing white civilization. Under the lead of Tannuluske, the able, progressive chief of the Cherokee nation, after a prolonged debate, a bill was passed permitting the building of a telephone line from Tahlequah, twenty miles, to the western boundary of the Cherokee nation at Fort Gibson, only three miles from Muskogee.

Plenty of Difficulties

In accordance with a condition imposed in the act of the legislature, men were employed to locate the most difficult route over which it was possible to build the line, not the easiest, so as to guard against a railroad following the wires. It would seem there were difficulties enough to be overcome without seeking new, for to carry the line on into Muskogee it was necessary to cross the Arkansas river, a span of more than 1200 feet.

From the start the Cherokee telephone was a general and financial success. The allotment of the tribal lands was soon after undertaken and the outside world became greatly interested in the doings of the Cherokee legislature. The telephone wire from Tahlequah to the telegraph office at Muskogee became a busy line indeed. The first ring of the telephone call bill at Tahlequah that announced the first message from Fort Gibson to the assembled crowds of astounded Indians standing around was indeed the mark of an epoch in the life of the Cherokee nation. Even more than they dreamed, it "rang out the old, rang in the new."

The interests of the whole people are paramount to the interests of any particular class. Every class can protect its legitimate interests without invading and jeopardizing the right and immunities of the public.

Escort Gets Fresh; Black Eye Result

DETROIT.—Pretty Nellie Eisenstein, twenty-two, a Cleveland switchman's wife, injected a few unprogrammed thrills when she was invited to go on a "beer" party with Jan W. A. Klaykamp, twenty-five, an art connoisseur connected with a local art studio.

Klaykamp put in an appearance in recorder's court arrayed in evening clothes, a very debonair figure. There was only one distracting feature to his appearance. That was a highly colored optic. Nellie was responsible for that, said the art connoisseur.

Klaykamp said he had had a few drinks and invited Nellie to have a few more with him. Soon after they started out in the taxicap Nellie began an attack on her escort, beating him over the head with her slipper. She broke down the door and smashed the wind shield of the taxi before he could get her out, said the aggrieved Klaykamp.

"He was too personal, altogether too personal," said Mrs. Eisenstein.

J. HERBERT SMITH WRITES OF TRIP ACROSS OCEAN

Employes of Grocerteria in Receipt of Letter From Traveler to Europe

Employes of the Glendale Grocerteria were greatly pleased yesterday to receive a letter from their employer, J. Herbert Smith, who with Mrs. Smith left Glendale some weeks ago for a three months' trip in the eastern states and abroad. Mr. and Mrs. Smith crossed the Atlantic on the Cunard liner Aquitania and the letter received at the Grocerteria was written just before they landed at North Hampton. The letter reads:

"On board the Cunard R M. S. Aquitania.

"To my friends and co-workers, Glendale Grocerteria, Glendale, California.

"You don't know how pleased Mrs. Smith and myself were to receive such a pleasant surprise, and so beautiful a bouquet of flowers as came to us aboard ship, just as we were leaving our home soil. It told us that, although we were far away, we were not forgotten and it was a very comforting thought I assure you, one that will always live with us.

Hold Sunday Worship

"Today, Sunday, it is raining, and the sea a little rough, although not uncomfortably so. Practically every religious sect is represented aboard ship and they are all holding services at different times and places. The last two days we have passed quite a number of ships, some going and some coming from U. S. A.

"We are having all kinds of sports and entertainments, dancing, concerts, boxing contests, races of all descriptions, moving pictures, cards, chess, etc. We were much amused at the dancing in the steerage. We can watch them from our decks. With an accordion and violin, they dance for hours, and their dances are very pretty. They are all dressed in bright colors and it makes quite an interesting picture.

Filled to Capacity

"We are not making very good time, so possibly will not land till Tuesday morning; this boat is loaded to capacity in all quarters with people from practically every country of the globe, yet all bent on getting the most out of their trip, which makes it pleasant all around.

"Mrs. Smith joins in kindest regards to you all,

"Ever your friend,

"J. HERBERT SMITH."

After touring England Mr. and Mrs. Smith will continue their trip, which will take them into France, Italy, Belgium and other European countries.

Mercury and Venus are the only planets that have no moons. Counting our own moon, the system of planets possesses no less than 27 moons.

AIR MAIL SERVICE ENDS YEAR WITH NO FATALITIES

Covers Over 1,750,000 Miles and Record Said to Be Remarkable

By U. S. Press Association

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The air mail service is jubilant over having finished a whole year's record without a single fatality. Planes flying on the various divisions between New York and San Francisco had covered more than 1,750,000 miles and carried more than 49,000,000 letters, weighing 1,224,500 pounds. Last year, when the first through shipment from coast to coast was made, seventeen lives were lost, including those of three pilots.

The record from July 16, 1921, to July 16 this year is by far the most wonderful performance in the history of practical flying. The percentage of trips completed was 92.5 per cent, as compared with 83 per cent of the previous year. This is comparable with the best railroad records.

Officials of the air-mail service attribute the new record to the fact that the pilots have become better accustomed to their routes, several of which contain some of the most perilous flying country in the world. There are stretches of more than 100 miles over the Rockies where a stopped engine means calling it a day.

Every day not less than twenty-one pilots are in the air flying approximately 6000 miles, or more than twice the number of miles from New York to California. The total number of miles flown last year equaled seventy times the distance around the world.

Mail sent through New York to San Francisco is taken across in three days, beating the railroads by more than a day. Pilots fly by divisions, their speed averaging about 100 miles an hour—sometimes, when the wind is with them—faster than three miles a minute.

Anthracite Coal Piles

Production of anthracite in the fourteenth week of the strike, reported by the geological survey, and covering particularly the week ending July 8, consisted of 440 cars—equivalent to about 23,000 net tons, most of which was river coal obtained by dredging operations. In the corresponding week of last year, 1,525,000 tons were produced. The rate is therefore only about 1 per cent of normal.

Shipments continue to go forward from the storage yards of the producers. In the week ended July 8 the shipments ex-storage were approximately 4101 cars.

The abnormal accumulation of unbilled loads of anthracite has practically disappeared. Against 2815 cars at the beginning of the strike, there remained in the week ended July 8 an average of 525 cars.

Bituminous Production

The monthly average reported by the United States geological survey for 1920 was 47,389,000 tons. The production for January, 1922, was 37,604,000 tons; February, 40,980,000 tons; March, 50,167,000 tons; April, 15,779,000 tons; May, 20,290,000 tons; June, 22,309,000 tons.

Conditions Feverish

Fluctuations in cotton prices continued wide and irregular during the first weeks of July, accompanied by reports of continued unsettled financial and political conditions abroad, and of serious spreading of the boll weevil with consequent uneasiness as to the probable extent of damage from this and other insect enemies of the crop. The main factors of influence on the course of prices for several weeks had been the prospects for the new crop and the decreasing stocks of cotton, but foreign political and financial conditions, and more recently our domestic industrial situation, have shared the attention of the cotton trade with the statisical position of cotton.

On July 14 the bureau of the census reported that consumption of cotton by American mills during the month of June amounted to 507,869 bales, exclusive of linters, compared with 461,917 bales in June, 1921. The census report shows also that imports of Egyptian cotton for the eleven months ending June 30, were 228,433 bales of 500 pounds, compared with 84,4716 bales for the corresponding period last season.

Total stocks of cotton in the United States on June 30, in accordance with statistics compiled from reports of the bureau of the census, amounted to 3,593,966 bales, compared with 7,425,055 bales on the same date last year.

Mrs. Phillips Cries As Nerves Give Way

LOS ANGELES, July 28—Hope of the district attorney's office that the head of the hammer with which Mrs. Alberta Meadows was beaten to death on July 12 had been found was dissipated today when a comparison of the piece of handle attached to a head found by R. A. Brown, with the broken handle found lying beside the body of the murdered woman showed them to be of different kind of wood.

Prison life is getting on the nerves of Mrs. Phillips, according to information from the county jail, where she is confined awaiting her trial on September 18. Late yesterday she broke down and wept hysterically, it was reported.

Whatever else you do with a worry, don't pass it on.

The present low prices of property may be sharply advanced at any moment without notice.

Glendale's beautiful public park—recently purchased—adjoins Verdugo Woodlands. The purchase of this park is an overwhelming recognition of the unsurpassed beauty of this picturesque green valley.

—but about those three live Glendale business men who bought homesites Sunday. One said: "I never realized that such a wooded fairyland existed within our city. Honestly, I believe that not 10 per cent of our business men have ever seen this place. No wonder the people you bring out here from other sections on your excursions, have bought over a million dollars' worth of property."

Another said: "I looked over every section of Glendale—including the highlands on each side of the city—and found nothing to compare with Verdugo Woodlands at any price. Your low prices surprised me."

Another said: "I have driven over Verdugo Road a thousand times—but never went down into the heart of the valley along Canada Blvd. I never dreamed that such rustic beauty existed in this valley. Believe me, this is to be my home as long as I live. WHY, the people of Glendale haven't 'discovered' this place before is beyond me. Yet, I understand that the same thing happened in Hollywood. It took outsiders to realize the opportunities and residential possibilities over there."

Go out and look over the situation. Don't let the best thing in residence property in Southern California get away from you, when it is right here in your own town. Remember—choice wooded sites as low as $950.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

AS CHEAPLY AS ONE?

"Two can live as cheaply as one" is a proverb which everyone knows is not true, and which everyone, who needs its aid, quotes as a justifier when he or she wants to take a certain well known course that needs justifying.

Two can't live as cheaply as one, but of course the basis of the idea is that the wife is going to add the value of her labor as a homemaker to the man's wage, and that under these conditions the wage will buy more than it would before his marriage when he was paying others directly or indirectly for service. And that is perfectly true, although it is not true that it will buy twice as much.

The Wife Contributes Service

If an unmarried man is paying $6 a week somewhere for a room he can doubtless get an apartment for $30 in which he can have as good a room besides the use of dining and living rooms. Add something for heat and light and you have a figure not as small as the $26 a month he would pay for his room but not as large as double that. His wife, by taking care of the apartment, makes up that difference in cost.

Likewise, if he has been paying board she has been paying for the cost of cooking the food as well as for the raw materials. And presumably his wife supplies that labor and manages to get enough for two out of a slightly larger sum than he paid for one.

Movie Tickets and Car Fares

Of course there are many ways in which this doesn't work. You can't get two moving picture tickets for the price of one, nor two car fares for one (even if only one gets a seat). But the thing I wanted to draw attention to was this: That when the wife is unable by lack of previous training or is unwilling because she does not like housework, to contribute her labor as a home-maker to the budget, two have got to have twice as much as one did if they are going to have as much.

Moreover, any woman who does work outside the home and thinks that she adds that much to the family income would be if she stayed at home and did the housework, is wrong. If they board they are going to pay something for service as well as for food and rooms; if they keep house and hire service that is going to run up very quickly.

Not Pure Gain

Mind you, I am not saying that I do not think there are circumstances under which women are happier at work other than housework. What I am saying is that the woman who goes out of the home must not deceive herself into thinking tht she can count all her salary as pure gain. Of course there are women who manage in their spare time at night and morning to do a good deal of housework. But either their employers or their health will suffer in that case.

Medal Is Sought for Girl Who Risked Her Own Life In Vain Effort to Rescue Chum

I.N.S.

Miss MARY BUHNER — Miss DOROTHY McCLATCHIE

TAMPA, Fla., July 28.—Application has been made by the Brotherhood Class of the Presbyterian church at St. Petersburg, Fla., for a Carnegie hero medal for Miss Mary Buhner, heroic young girl swimmer, who risked death by drowning, or in attack by an unknown sea monster believed to have been a barracuda, in a vain effort to save the life of her chum, Miss Dorothy McClatchie, who bled to death from wounds inflicted upon her left leg and thigh by the unseen foe, while the two girls were swimming in the main ship channel about a mile beyond the Recreation Pier on June 17.

They had made the mile swim from the end of the dock to the buoy in a choppy sea and were getting ready to return when Miss McClatchie cried out that a shark had bitten her foot off. An examination showed that the foot was still there, but that her leg had been cut to the bone in two places as if by a razor, severing the main artery. Miss Buhner began swimming toward the shore towing her companion and tried to attract the attention of a passenger steamer, but could not make anyone see their plight. She kept waving her hand, however, and eventually someone from the recreation pier put out in a rowboat.

When the boat reached them Miss Buhner was exhausted from swimming for twenty-five minutes and keeping her companion from sinking. Miss McClatchie, although unconscious from the loss of blood and from the presence of water in her lungs, was still living, but died in an automobile while being taken from the dock to a hospital. Miss McClatchie was a Canadian girl and had intended going to McGill university, Toronto, but changed her mind because her chum, Miss Buhner, wanted to go to Sullins, in Virginia.

Miss McClatchie and Miss Buhner were inseparable friends and had planned to be roommates at college. They were both athletes and members of the St. Petersburg swimming club. Both had won many prizes. Miss McClatchie in particular had many athletic accomplishments, arising from her determination to have a sound physique, in spite of the fact that her mother, sister and brother were invalids.

A few moments after Miss McClatchie was struck by the fish she began to feel the weakness resulting from the great loss of blood. She never lost her composure, but when she felt herself growing unconscious, merely said: "Kiss me, Mary; I'm gone!"

"Oh, no Dot! Just float, and I'll tow you in!"

Had Miss Buhner been able to attract attention sooner Miss McClatchie's life probably could have been saved, but they were more than a mile from shore when the tragedy occurred, and in the long swim shoreward the wounded girl's blood ebbed away, and death beat them in the race.

Diet and Health

SPIRITUALITY VS MATERIALITY

COUNTING CALORIES

It was too bad, my using all my space yesterday before I had given you your menu so that you had to repeat the dinner you had the day before. Of course if you liked it, you did not mind. But maybe you didn't? Well, I'm sorry.

Soon you will be able to arrange your own menus and choose what you like.

The advantage of counting calories is that you can do that; you don't have to have special cooking done for you and it makes your dieting inconspicuous.

It is passe, obsolete, now to say you are dieting or reducing. Nowadays the proper form is to say you are counting calories. It is the national indoor sport.

And when you say you are counting calories, your hearers will not know whether you are doing it to reduce or to gain! If they are blind).

Now before I say another word which may start me on another phase of this interesting subject and make me forget again to order your dinner, here it is—with 100 C more than the last, making now 1100 C you will have.

Breakfast—Same as usual....100C
(If you are fond of coffee take it with hot skim milk, coffee au lait).

Lunch—Cheese sandwich 225C
Cheese, amt. in 1¼ inch cube, 100C; two slices of w. w. bread each ¼ inch thick, 200C, and butter, ¼ pat, 25C.
One medium apple 50C
Raw spinach salad made of
One cup shredded raw spinach 0C
One teaspoon honey....25C
One tablespoon lemon juice practically 0C, total 25C
Tea—10 oz. skim milk, or buttermilk 100C
Dinner:—Small oyster cocktail 25C
Celery, 10 moderate stalks, Eat the green leaves also.. 25C
Halibut steak, broiled, piece 3 by 2½ by 1 in.....100C
Sauce for steak, melted butter one tablespoon, one tablespoon lemon juice, one tablespoon chopped parsley, total.....100C
One slice w. w. bread, or French roll, or ½ cup of mashed potato 100C
Vegetable Gelatin or Agar Pudding:
Granulated, non-medicated agar (get in drug store), 3 level tbsp..... 0C
Pour over it 5-oz. hot skim milk 50C
One heaping teaspoon sugar ..50C
Add a little flavoring. Cool. Serve with 5 oz. milk 100C

There is a little joke tucked away in that dinner. I have given you something for your constipation. It is the agar pudding.

I hope you will like agar, for it is one of the best things I know of for constipation during the calorie counting season.

Constipation in the over-weight is often due to the fact that the alimentary tract, in its endeavor to wring the last atom of nourishment from the food so as to store it away as fat, even digests the cellulose or fibre which, in more fortunate individuals, passes through unmolested. The result is that there is not enough residue left for the intestines to consider worth taking action upon, and constipation is the result.

Now this vegetable gelatine, or agar, is a Japanese seaweed, and it resists the blandishments of the most diligent American digestive tract, and gets by—showing that it is difficult for anything American to absorb anything Japanese.

I will tell you more about constipation and more about counting calories some other time. But for now please keep up your exercises, keep up your recording, keep up your calorie counting, and you will keep down weight.

Dogs Vaccinated to Prevent Rabies

CINCINNATI—There was a time when a dog who lost his temper and tried his teeth on a human in Cincinnati—no matter what provocation he had—was condemned to death summarily as a victim of rabies. But that is all changed, thanks to Dr. R. B. Blume, chief veterinary officer of the health department, and a new serum.

Now when a dog bites someone and there is a suspicion that he is predisposed toward rabies Dr. Blume vaccinates him and keeps him for observation at the dog pound. He says the serum will not cure the malady, but will prevent it. A Japanese scientist developed the new treatment, according to Dr. Blume, and found it highly successful.

Suburban Realty Co. Says Business Brisk

"If we do as well for the next nine months as we have for the past three, we'll have a record year," states H. J. Blackburn, vice president of the Suburban Realty company, at 508 South Brand.

The assured lowering of the Pacific Electric tracks on South Brand boulevard is one cause for the increase of value of real estate in that district and the consequent activity of the company, explains Mr. Blackburn.

For the past week alone, the company reports a business of over $50,000, and during the past few weeks they have made sales on South Brand alone aggregating $75,000, they state. Among the recent purchasers there, who secured their property through the Suburban company, are a Long Beach capitalist who bought land on Brand near Maple, and a prominent Los Angeles apartment house operator who, it is stated, took up a large lot as a site for a bungalow court or apartment house.

Both Alfred H. Johnson, president of the company, and Mr. Blackmore are optimistic with regard to both South Brand property and Glendale real estate in general.

"The best buys in Southern California are to be found in Glendale," they state, "and sales and building projects prove it."

It is their expectation that when the Pacific Electric tracks, now in some places several feet above the street, are lowered and the right of way paved development in that section will be even more rapid than it is at present.

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

DRESSING TABLE ACCESSORIES

How many dressing table accessories are necessary? About half what are usually used, I should say. It is much better to have a dressing table with nothing on it but one nice looking mirror than to have one whose top is cluttered up with a lot of cheap brushes and untidy bottles.

Most dressing table articles should be kept in a drawer rather than on the table. It does not seem particularly nice to have the brush and comb out where they can pick up all the dust that flies in the room. But the hand mirror, the powder jar, which should be covered and as good looking as you can afford, the manicure implements, one or two tiny boxes for pomade or paste, and perhaps a pair of quaint bottles to hold perfume or toilet water are certainly all that are necessary for the dresser.

Then there is the important question as to what these articles should be made of. Silver seems to be a popular favorite, so popular that those who cannot afford solid put up with silver plate.

Tortoiseshell has been having a great vogue lately but the real tortoiseshell is more expensive than solid silver. However, if you haven't a prejudice against imitations you can find charming toilet sets of composition remarkably like tortoiseshell for only a fraction of the cost.

Real ivory sets are fabulously expensive. Fortunately the craze for white celluloid imitations of ivory are dying out. These became so cheap and common that they lost all their beauty, if they ever had any. One woman I know who possessed quantities of cheap white celluloid which she grew to hate dipped the articles in hot black dye and produced a curious gray mottled effect which was novel and pleasing.

Every woman longs for dainty possessions.

Zita W.:—Rubbing ice over fleshy parts of the body would not effect a reduction. Ice is used on the skin to close the pores after they have been opened for cleansing. Ice treatment contracts the skin but does not reduce weight. The reaction which follows brings the blood to the surface, toning the skin and making it firm.

Reduce portions of the body through exercise or vigorous massage.

Grateful:—At 16 years of age, 4 ft., 11 in., you should weigh about 105 pounds. Corns come from pressure and they can be prevented by wearing shoes that fit properly. Since a corn is the result of pressure, it should be covered with a piece of soft felt having a tiny hole cut through it, which allows the corn to breathe. Binding corns for a few successive nights with a piece of lemon sometimes cures them, while oil rubbed into the callous parts will also prevent and cure. When a corn must be removed, it is advisable to have it done by a chiropodist.

Eggs in Tomato Sauce: Select firm, ripe tomatoes of even sizes; wash them and with a sharp knife remove a slice from stem end, scoop out centers and sprinkle lightly with salt. Drop a fresh egg in each, sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper and cook in moderate oven until egg is set. Place on hot platter, place a small piece of butter on each egg and serve hot.

Brown Bread: Mix and sift one cup of white flour, one cup of cornmeal, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon soda into a bowl. Add one cup of buttermilk and one cup of molasses and beat until perfectly smooth, then add one cup of chopped raisins and turn into a well-greased mold. Steam three hours, then remove mold from water and bake in moderate oven one-half hour.

Quick Coffee Cake: Sift two cups of flour, four tablespoons sugar, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt into a bowl. Beat one egg, add one-half cup milk and stir into the dry ingredients. Beat until smooth, add four tablespoons salted butter, spread in shallow pan, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and bake in quick oven 20 to 25 minutes. May be eaten either hot or cold.

Creole Spaghetti: Put two tablespoons cooking fat in frying pan and when hot add four medium size onions sliced. Toss all lightly together with sufficient French dressing to thoroughly moisten each piece of the salad material. Serve in crisp lettuce cups.

Peach Fritters: Select firm ripe peaches; peel and force the pit out with end of case knife; roll in sugar and dip in a batter made of one cup of flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon baking powder, two eggs and one cup of sweet milk. Fry in hot fat, drain on brown paper and serve with powdered sugar or any preferred sauce. A lemon sauce would be particularly pleasing.

New Italy Cabinet Of Meda Is Failure

ROME, July — Efforts of Deputy Meda to form a new cabinet in succession to the Facta ministry ended in failure today. In the meantime the political situation grows more tense with rumors of a possible military dictatorship It was expected that King Victor Emmanuel would invite Signor Donav to attempt the formation of a ministry and in the event of his failure would call upon Signor Orlando or Signor Denicola.

Twelve persons were reported to have been killed in fighting between Facistas and Socialists which has been raging at Ravenna for 24 hours. Many others were wounded.

The government situation is obscure and the outcome cannot be foreseen.

Practically all the leading statesmen have admitted their inability to form a new government.

Public tension has risen to fever pitch over the warfare between the Facista and the communists and socialists in the north. Both sides have armed and are prepared for a spread of the conflict.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— By Howard R. Garis —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE DRUM STICKS

It was a rainy day, and when Uncle Wiggily began putting on his coat, made from the leaves of the rubber plant, Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady, exclaimed:

"You aren't going out in all the wet, are you, Wiggy?"

"Why of course I am!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "My rubber plant coat will keep me dry, and I really can't stay in the bungalow all day. I must have an adventure."

He twinkled his pink nose in right jolly fashion, buttoned his coat, and out into the storm he went. Though it was raining hard, it was not cold, and even if it had been Uncle Wiggily would have been quite warm, for he wore his summer coat of fur. The fur was not as thick as it would be in the winter, but it was plenty warm enough.

"Now I wonder what sort of adventure I shall have?" thought Uncle Wiggily to himself, as he hopped along, his feet going splish splash in puddles of water. "For some sort of adventure I must have," he chuckled, "or Nurse Jane will laugh at me. Going out in the rain and coming back without having had an adventure will seem very funny to Nurse Jane.

"I'll stop and see the squirrel boys."

"Yes, I really must have an adventure," went on the bunny gentleman, and he looked over the field across which he was then hopping. He hoped he might see an adventure that he could take part in, but there was no such thing in sight. However, Uncle Wiggily saw a cute little house up in a tree, and he knew who lived there.

"Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels," said Uncle Wiggily to himself. "I'll stop and see the squirrel boys. It isn't yet time to go off in the woods nutting. They'll surely be at home."

And Johnnie and Billie were. Uncle Wiggily could tell that by hearing the squirrel boys' voices as he drew near their tree house. But the voices did not seem to be very jolly.

"Oh dear!" is what Uncle Wiggily heard Billie saying. "I think this rain is terrible! We can't go out and we can't have any fun!"

"That's what I say!" chattered Johnnie. "Nothing is any good."

"Why don't you take your drum and play soldier?" asked Mrs. Bushytail, the mother squirrel. "You always liked that game."

Now I wonder what they'll say to that?" thought Uncle Wiggily, pausing beneath the open window of the squirrel house to listen to what Billie and Johnnie might say.

"We can't play soldier with our drum, mother," answered Billie.

"'Cause we haven't any drum sticks," added Johnnie.

"Use clothes pins," advised the squirrel lady, who was doing her best to keep the boys good natured when they must stay in because of the rain.

"Clothes pins aren't any good!" declared Billie.

"We want regular drum sticks, long and thin with a little round knob on the end!" insisted Johnnie. "They're the only kind that will go 'rub-a-dub-dub!' We want regular drum sticks!"

"My! You squirrel boys are hard to please today," laughed Mother Bushytail. "I wish it would stop raining so you could go out."

"So do we!" chattered Billie and Johnnie, and then they whined and were so cross and fretful that Uncle Wiggily said to himself:

"I'll hop around in the fields and woods and perhaps I can find some regular drum sticks for those chaps. If they have a good game of playing soldiers they'll forget about the rain."

Over the fields and through the woods hopped the bunny gentleman, and soon he met a colony of ants who were marching along in rows, almost like real soldiers.

"They ought to know about drum sticks," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll ask them." And when he had spoken to the head ant that little creature answered and said:

"Look behind you, Uncle Wiggily. There you will see the long, thin stems of the golden-rod flowers. And those will be just right for drum sticks."

"They may be long and thin," spoke the bunny, "but what about the round rub-a-dub-dub knob on the end?"

"If you will look closely," said the ant, "you will see that some of the golden-rod stems have this round knob on."

"Oh, so they have!" cried Uncle Wiggily, as he saw the golden-rod drum sticks, just as you have often seen them, I have no doubt. "What made them this way?" asked the bunny.

"Well," answered the ant, some insect bored a hole in the stem of the golden-rod in which to lay her eggs. The golden-rod, not liking this, began to build a little round ball of pith around the eggs, to keep them away from the rest of the plant, I suppose. At any rate the sting of an insect made the round knobs on the stem of the golden-rod plant, just as the sting of another insect makes the round oak apples, or oak galls."

"Well, they certainly make fine drum sticks," said Uncle Wiggily, as he picked four golden-rod stems. He was hurrying to the squirrel house with them, after having thanked the ants, when the Fuzzy Fox sprang out and tried to bite the bunny's ears.

"Oh, ho! No you don't!" cried the rabbit, and he beat such a lively rub-a-dub-dub with the golden-rod drum sticks on the nose of the Fox that the bad chap cried: "Wow! Wow! Wow!" and away he ran.

Then Uncle Wiggily took the golden-rod drum sticks to the squirrel boys, who played soldiers and didn't mind the rain. And so they were happy. And if the elephant doesn't pack all the rag doll's clothes in his trunk so she has nothing pretty to wear to the moving pictures, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the tingle weed.

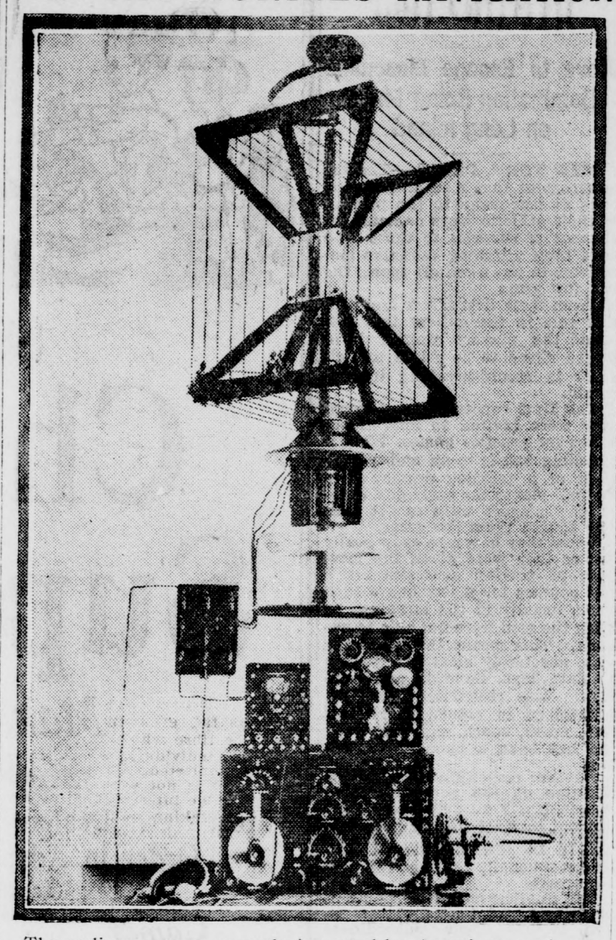
REVOLUTIONIZES NAVIGATION



The radio compass, recently invented by American engineers and now employed by the American government, has revolutionized navigation. The new apparatus directs vessels in troubled waters and in dense fogs. Many of these stations, which have a range of 200 miles, have been erected along our coast line. This picture shows the radio compass.

REGENERATION

When radio frequency potential variations, due to received oscillations, are applied between the grid and filament of a vacuum tube variations in plate current at the same frequency will occur. With no incoming signals there is, of course, a steady, direct current flowing in the plate circuit, due to the conduction between plate and filament, the energy being supplied by the plate battery. This is true when the positive terminal of the plate battery is connected to the plate, but there is no conduction when the negative battery terminal is so connected. The plate current variations mentioned above are increases and decreases of current about the steady value, and regarding this value as a mean the variations appear to be oscillations in the plate circuit. They are superimposed upon the steady, direct current. Whether the amplitudes of these oscillations will be comparatively large or whether they will be greatly smoothed out or even practically "killed" will depend upon the reactance of the plate circuit, particularly that due to the magnet windings of a pair of head telephones or the coils of a transformer. The amplitudes of the plate circuit oscillations may be made larger by providing a shunt path of low reactance across the portion of the circuit which contains the high reactance. A condenser shunted across the head telephones provides such a low reactance "by pass" for the radio frequency oscillations.

If the plate circuit oscillations can be caused to induce oscillations in the grid circuit in step or in phase with the received oscillations the amplitudes of the latter will be increased Suppose that the tuned secondary circuit of a receiver is connected to a vacuum tube so that the potential variations across the tuning condenser are applied between the grid and filament. The oscillations in the tuned circuit are limited in amplitude by the resistance of the circuit, since the total reactance is zero when resonance is secured with the antenna oscillations. This presupposes a fixed applied electromotive force in the tuned circuit. The amplitudes may be increased, then, by anything which reduces the resistance of the circuit. Since resistance results in energy loss, it is seen that anything which causes energy to replace that which is lost will decrease the resistance or at least its effect. In such an event the oscillations in the tuned circuit being made stronger, the potentials applied between the grid and filament of the tube will be increased. If the resistance were totally compensated by the replacing of energy in step with the oscillations in the tuned circuit those oscillations would become undamped. They would be continuous oscillations generated by the tube itself and would have a frequency determined by the inductance and capacitance of the tuned oscillatory circuit. The energy for the self-generated oscillation is, of course, drawn from the plate battery.

There are ways in which energy my be fed back to the grid circuit from the plate circuit. All of them are referred to as regeneration methods, since the energy in the first circuit is regenerated by the feed-back action.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

A NEW KIND OF COIL INDUCTANCE

The efficiency of the honeycomb and later the duo-lateral type has long been well known. A new coil development has made its appearance. These inductances come wound in the usual conventional sizes. The windings are made of cotton yarn, wound into the form of a lattice, and simultaneously the wire is wound into the coil in parallel turns. The cotton yarn separates the layers of wire with cotton and air cells These air cells reduce the high frequency reistance greatly. This method of winding gives maximum copper space and insulation space in a given volume. The insulation between layers is greatest at the points of maximum potential difference. This results in giving this type of coil winding an extremely low self capacity, and this in turn is noticeable in the great selectivity and sharp tuning obtained. The high frequency resistance is by far much less than on any other type of coil. On the usual amateur antenna of low capacity these coils give remarkable results. They are equally effective on all waves. The workmanship is very neat, and they are reasonably priced.

Book Reviews

Vacation time is the season most popular for summer reading. The recent books which have been released for distribution at the Glendale public library on Harvard street are of many and varied topics and include:

"Kismet," an "Arabian Night," by Edward Knoblauch. The hazards, high spirits, fatalism, and wild achievements of the characters in this historic play have no parallel outside of the imagination of eastern fable-makers.

Among the dog stories of that favorite author, Albert Payson Terhune are "Bruce," "His Dog," "Buff, a collie" and "Lad."

"Anthology of Magazine Verse for 1921," by William Stanley Braithwaite.

"My Trip Abroad," by Charlie Chaplin. What Europe did to one of the popular movie actors of the world. This is a fast moving narrative of Charlie Chaplin's trip and is a tale of humor, human interest, sights and sounds.

Berlin Expects to Avert War Situation

BERLIN, July 28. — Government officials expressed the opinion today that the Bavarian crisis, which has been threatening Germany with civil war and a breakup of the confederation of states, will be averted, it is expected that the government warning to Bavaria against secession would be followed by a statement from President Ebert appealing to the Bavarians to keep the peace.

There was a strong current of opinion that the Reichstag would be summoned to deal with the officials as officials believe that the tension could be allayed best if the negotiations were conducted quietly between Berlin and Munich.

Independent socialists are most hostile against the Bavarians, claiming that the southern monarchists are only awaiting an opportunity to attempt to overthrow the central government.

The typewriter is the most deadly of all engines of warfare because it spreads the propaganda that causes war, according to Thomas R. Marshall, former vice-president of the United States.

They Say That

Japan's egoistic policy toward China must be abandoned for one of sincere friendship to this mighty neighbor now in the throes of civil war, says some Japanese newspapers, which do not hesitate to criticize harshly the Japanese government's attitude toward China, and contrast it with the feeling of the individuals of either country for one another. The Tokyo Asahi charges that while international relations between Japan and China are "daily increasing in intensity, national alienation and estrangement are daily expanded." The greatest cause of this "deplorable phenomenon," we are told, is Japan's "utter disregard of cultural harmony with China and also her military diplomacy toward China, in which she has been absorbed for so many years." On the other hand:

"America, England, France and Germany have established their foundations in China mainly by means of inculcating their own culture in that country, and by their strenuous efforts in developing young Chinese." Japan is now wide awake to this state of affairs, and sundry movements are being advanced to bring about the restoration of amity between the two nations, but the gap created between them is now too wide to be bridged over. Japan's proposal for training Chinese students by remitting the Boxer indemnity fund has failed to be realized."

Now is the time for Japan to start anew with China, according to this daily, which suggests as an immediate practical evidence of Japanese good-will that the Japanese government and the people adopt relief measures for the Chinese students in Japan who are suffering greatly as the result of financial depression and political upset in their homeland. The monthly expenses of these students, it is estimated, do not amount to more than 50,000 yen (normally $2,000), and this sum the Japanese can easily raise if they have any real intention of helping the student, declares The Asahi. "In its view the best plan is for business corporations interested in Chinese and Japanese trade to co-operate in raising a fixed amount each month for the students, of whom we read:

"This time these poor students are precariously situated in Tokyo and other cities in this country, because of the war in China, and also because of the economic blight. Their sad predicament was aggragavated by the sudden return of the Chinese Charge d'Affaires here to Peking, and some of them are racking their brains how to raise lodging bills, while others are winding up their affairs to go home. Their fellow students in France made a great stir for a similar reason.

"This is not a problem to be looked on placidly by Japan, but is a matter to which current deliberation must be given. For perfect amity and true unity between the two countries there must be a mutual complete understanding by both people. A mere document of treaty between the governments plus secret diplomacy will not bring about amity in the true sense. The Japanese government and nation are now making heavy sacrifices and great efforts to solve the problem of amity and unity, more especially with America, while Sino-Japanese amity is maintained only through diplomatic language, thus remaining a mere name."

"No," objected the other. "Let's go to Ireland. They got one army there per capita."

Man Arrested for Violating Fire Laws

OAKLAND, July 28.—Accused of starting a disastrous fire on Mount Diablo which has destroyed approximately 5,000 acres of pasture land with an estimated loss of $25,000, Joe Holsher, ranchman on the ranch of Dr. Louzer, was arrested early today by E. F. Barnes, fire warden of Oakland. Holsher was arrested on information obtained from Dr. Louzer that Holsher had been instructed to burn out the creek-bed on his ranch. Holsher claimed, according to Barnes, that he had not attempted to burn the creek-bed but that the fire started when he dropped his pipe in the grass and the fire got beyond his control.

EMIGRATION LAWS REQUIRED, SAYS T. R. MARSHALL

'Low-Browed Yanks Should Not Be Permitted to Go Abroad,' Claim

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, July 28—The United States needs an emigration restriction law as well as an immigration restriction law.

For the good of friendly relations between Europe and the United States there should be just as strong measures to keep the bad Americans and the undesirable Americans in the United States as the strict measures that are taken to keep the undesirable Europeans out of America.

Former Vice-President Marshall, during a recent visit to London, publicly advised the English people not to judge America by those "war profiteers who come over here and strut up and down Piccadilly," and the former Vice-President didn't tell it all.

The influx of Americans to Europe this summer has been great, and among the thousands who have come have been many who might better have been kept at home. London newspapers have attributed several senational crimes of late to "Americans." Whether their conclusions were correct or not it is impossible to say, but it certainly indicates that London believes there are some undesirable Americans among those present.

Flaunt Their Wealth

There have been hundreds of Americans who have come to Europe to flaunt their wealth in the faces of the still war-impoverished Europeans.

This does not make for a friendly feeling toward the United States and causes the deepest disgust among those Americans who are anxious that their country shall be truly represented on this side of the water.

There have been too many Americans who have figured in the police court news in London this summer. The London press never fails to feature the case of the American who over-imbibes and gets into the toils, and those who don't get into the toils but make public scenes cause a great deal of comment among the English people, who look upon prohibition and drunkenness as great curses.

Rather Skeptical

The American stage has been terribly misrepresented in England and particularly in the English vaudeville theatres. There are American acts now headlined on English vaudeville circuits that have never seen the light of any theatre out of the "tank circuits," and the English theatregoer is pretty skeptical of any performance that is labeled "American." There have been some excellent American performers come to England, but there have been many more who should have been kept at home.

The impression of America that Europe is gathering from the post-war American influx is a poor one, and it certainly will not enhance in the Europeans that wholesome respect which they gained for America by close contact with the American armies.

FAIR SEX PREFER THEIR FREEDOM IN ATHLETICS

Move to Escape Masculine Domination Being Made on Long Island

NEW YORK, July 28.—The announcement that men and women have at last come to the parting of their athletic ways contains no element of surprise to those who have been watching feminine maneuvers in the owrd olf sports the last few years.

From their first minor and passive role in the gallery that followed the players women have forged ahead to be active participants in record-breaking tournaments.

The first concession was when they were invited to lend themselves for practice games. What a punching bag is to an embryo pugilist or a tackling dummy to a football player the early day women golf players were to the men who taught them the game.

When they began to grow really restive they were given the privilege of playing over the men's golf courses for a few hours each week, usually in the mornings or when the men were not able to use them. This meant that the links were absolutely closed to women on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. This restriction has been maintained in almost every golf club, north, south, east and west, and has been a bone of contention.

Another reason for growing disaffection on the part of women is that nearly all golf courses are laid out to meet the requirements and to fit the capacity of men players—usually those of the first magnitude.

Still another complaint of women golfers and tennis experts as well, is that their subordinate position in all athletic organizations has affected their status in the matter of publicity.

Relations Strained

A recent analysis of the situation in country clubs in every part of the country disclosed the existence of very strained relations because of the growing demand of women. Nowhere were the men members willing to relinquish their right of precedence on the links or to change any of the rules that would make the status of women players more inclusive.

When it was finally realized by women golfers that no compromise was possible the initial step was taken by a committee headed by Miss Marion Hollins, national woman golf champion, which will eventually free women in sports from their present athletic entanglements and permit them to embark on a career of their own.

The ultimate result of this movement will be the organization of a women's national golf association, which in time will affiliate with a women's national athletic association that will be entirely independent of any jurisdiction but that of women.

The entering wedge for a complete separation of athletic interests has been definitely inserted by Miss Hollins and her committee in their plans for the organization of the Glen Head club on Long Island. Women from all parts of the country have been invited to join it.

The next step after the Glen Head club is actually started will be to encourage the forming of women's golf clubs in as many localities as possible.

Option Obtained

An option has been obtained on a piece of land at Glen Head, L. I. The purchase of this tract now seems assured, as the guaranty of 300 members by July will make it possible. On the property is an old colonial farmhouse which will be converted into a comfortable and attractive club. It is planned to lay out the course so that it will furnish a real championship test for women and fulfill all the requirements for a high standard of women's golf, while eliminating the long drives and other disadvantages of the men's courses. It is in the heart of the golfing district. There are at least fifteen courses within a radius of twelve miles, so that there will be no suggestion of isolation in its separation from "man ruled" clubs.

Miss Hollins spent several months in England recently conferring with golfers as to the development of plans for the new club. In many places in England and Scotland Miss Hollins found that there are women's courses adjoining the men's, but they are usually constructed along old-fashioned lines, not adequate to the needs of woman players as they have developed in this country.

Husbands May Play

There will be a resident woman secretary, who will take care of the members who come from a distance, arrange games for them and see to it that they are thoroughly comfortable. Accommodations will be available at the club for out-of-town members at all seasons.

Another laudable aim of the new club will be to encourage the development of youthful players.

Although the organization of the club was born of a desire for relief from the domination of men, there is no intention on the part of the members of the Glen Head club to exclude them from the privilege of the clubhouse. A husband will be permitted to play on his wife's membership.

Irish Irregulars Gather for Battle

DUBLIN, July 28. — Large forces of republican irregulars are concentrating in the region of Fermoy and Waterford, indicating that preparations are under way to give battle to the free state troops. Eamonn de Valera is reported to be in command of the rebels. The railways were torn up hindering the approach of free state reinforcements.

The advance of the free state troops into the south and west continues. It is reported that the resignation of George Gavan Duffy as foreign minister was due to the censorship.

Many self-appointed regulators of their neighbors' conduct have one standard for others and quite another standard for themselves. The more rigid standard is for others.

LEONARD HAS BEST OF BOUT, SAYS DAVIS WALSH

Battle Goes Twelve Rounds and Tendler's Showing Is Considered Good

By DAVID J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 28. — In a roaring, two-fisted bout that filled the eye and gladdened the heart, Benny Leonard not only managed to preserve his lightweight title intact, by avoiding a knockout, but outscored Lew Tendler, the challenger, last night at Boyle's Thirty Acres after twelve of the most sensational rounds 'a championship engagement has known in many years.

A beaten man until the ninth round, with his championship crown hanging at a most surprising and rakish angle, Leonard came back like a bad check in the last four to nip Tendler's lead right at the wire. in the final round he was shooting lefts and rights into Tendler's anatomy almost at will and there seemed no reasonable doubt about the fact that, if the bout had gone a few rounds further Leonard would have been a very comfortable winner, indeed.

Bears Some Marks

As it was, his margin of superiority was sufficient to convince the majority of critics and spectators at the ringside.

He was by no means a debonair winner, however. Over his right eye was the red smear of a cut, a memento of Tendler's arching left to the head in the first round while the usual even line of his smile was broken by a gaping hole where a disenfranchised tooth had been knocked loose from its home. So much for his physical casualties.

As for his mental poise, this was somewhat shaken by the memory of a hectic eighth round in which he was forced to summon all of his ring craft to stave off an impending knockout. A left hook to the jaw in this round caused Leonard's knees to buckle and his eye to glaze momentarily and Tendler, scenting immediate victory, swarmed over the champion like a boarding party of pirates. But his judgment of distance was faulty and his big moment passed almost before he had time to recognize.

Tendler Forces Fight

There were no knockdowns, largely because one man was so clever and the other so tough. Tendler forced the fighting from first to last and seemed satisfied to take two punches to land one. That was where Leonard outscored him, even if he didn't actually hurt him at any time.

And Leonard was shooting to the "button" like a sharpshooter after the fifth round. Time after time Tendler was brought up short with terrific right uppercuts and left hooks, but he shook them off and came on again without obvious distress. Leonard was made to look foolish with his pre-battle claim of an early knockout because of what he termed the challenger's lack of class.

The latter lacked class so evidently that he was within two good punches of scoring a knockout in the eighth.

The writer's tally of the rounds gave Tendler four rounds, the first, second, fourth and eight; Leonard five, the sixth, seventh, tenth, eleventh and twelfth and the rest even.

Plenty of Action

The ease with which Tendler went the race in the early rounds caused much astonishment and discomfort to those who had sent in their money on the champion. It really looked in the first two rounds when Tendler was hooking his left to Leonard's head almost without return as though Benny would not remain for the evening.

With the fourth, however, Leonard began to use a right uppercut with telling effect and in the sixth the challenger was just a bit goofy from these punches.

Until that moment Tendler had carried the fight to his man with a singular lack of the body punching attack he was supposed to launch from the first bell. It was apparent that a switch in his plans had been made, at least for the first few rounds. And when he did begin to bring his punches down, along about the fourth round, he found Leonard to be a veritable network of gloves and elbows. In brief, Tendler made a remarkable stand in spite of the collapse of his favorite mode of attack.

Draws 70,000 Persons

Aside from the eighth and ninth, the last six rounds were all Leonard's. He had fought off the spell of that awkward left hand stand.

"It took me eight rounds to get wise to that bird," he shouted to friends as he left the ring.

That just about covers the situation. Certainly no one, however, can take issue with the fact that Leonard made Tendler look very bad in the last three rounds.

The enterprise drew a crowd of 70,000 and the receipts mounted well above the $450,000 mark. Of this sum, Leonard probably will draw down about $115,000 and Tendler close of $90,000.

What the fighters said today:

By BENNY LEONARD

Tendler is a better man that I thought he was. It took me six or eight rounds to figure him out and size up his left hand. I opened up then, but I must say that Lew is game and can "take it." I was in good shape and that's why Tendler's body attack did not tire me. I guess he was rather discouraged when those lefts to the stomach did not fold me up. I believe I would have finished him in another round or two, as he was tiring fast and his defense was breaking down rapidly. I still think I can knock him out.

By LEW TENDLER

Leonard is still champion, but he's only human and I hope to get another crack at the title this winter. I learned a lot about him that will help me in another match. I must say he stood up well under body punishment. I know I hurt him from the beginning while I was still fresh and I believe I can stop him in a few rounds. I think nobody will dispute that I tied up his left hand. Leonard is clever, at holding and for that reason I did not do as well as I expected.

GLENDALE MERCHANTS' BASEBALL TEAM WILL MEET L. A. AMERICAN LEGION SQUAD, POST 8, ON SUNDAY

GLENDALE MERCHANTS' BASEBALL CLUB

Sunday afternoon the Glendale aggregation of baseball players are scheduled to meet the Post 8, Los Angeles American Legion team in fast combat on the local diamond at Park and San Fernando road.

This is the second time such a game has been scheduled. A couple of weeks ago the Post 8 nine was to journey to Glendale for an encounter, but only two arrived, due to a misunderstnding of the place where the game was to be played. Manager John A. Cobb of the Merchants guarantees that this time both teams will be on the grounds at 3 o'clock sharp, and that the game will be played as announced.

Post 8 is a dangerous opponent, judging from reports and from the fact that the team finished second in the Legion league in Southern California. Manager Cobb is giving his warriors some severe grilling this week in preparation for the encounter, and is convinced that, although he expects the Merchants to win, it will take the best playing they can produce to do it.

The local boys are no slouches. Out of thirteen games, they have won eleven, giving the team a percentage of .846, which is hard for almost any club to beat.

The lineup for neither team has been announced, and "Ty" seems to be reserving his decision as to who will play until the last moment, so that he can put in whoever seems to be in best form. For "Ty" expects a battle.

There is to be no game Saturday Last week a system of Saturday as well as Sunday games was instituted, but the team received very little support, and it was decided that it would be useless to try to keep up the practice.

Sunday's game is to be a benefit for the Thornycroft Buddies. Several weeks ago a game was to have been played for their benefit, but it had to be postponed on account of Cobb's inability to locate an opponent for the Merchants at that time. The proceeds of Sunday's game, however, go to the Buddies, it is announced.

"I want to make a special request for the support of the Glendale baseball fans for this game," stated Manager Cobb today. "The Thornycroft Buddies deserve a little help from the fans, and the Merchants look to them for a little encouragement. We have made a pretty good record this year, I think. We have lost only two games out of thirteen, and those two were battles. One of them ran to fifteen innings, and in the other we loaned the visitors three of our men.

"We're not asking support just because we are a Glendale team, but the boys are putting out a good brand of baseball, and I think if the local fans will only come to see us play, they will realize that we're playing a pretty good game."

Tagging All Bases

The Giants manhandled a squad of Cardinal pitchers for the third day in succession, winning, 12 to 7, and further strengthened their league leadership. Stock kept the Cards in the hunt with successive homers in the first and third, scoring six runs.

Nixon's single broke up a ten-inning game between the Braves and Cubs, the latter finishing second, 8 to 7. Ford obliged with five hits.

The Yanks drew up to within a half game of the lead by taking the Browns in camp again, Schang's homer producing the winning run in the eleventh. Danforth was tossed out for an alleged attempt to doctor the ball.

The greatly astonishing Phillips made it three straight over the Reds when they came from behind with a six-run rally in the seventh to win, 6 to 5.

The Athletics finished away out in front of the Indians by hammering Coveleskie with enthusiasm, 11 to 2. It was the Pole's first defeat in seven starts.

Giants Annex Third Game From Cards

NEW YORK, July 28.—Slamming four Cardinal pitchers for eighteen hits, the Giants took the third game of their series with the St. Louis Cards yesterday afternoon by the score of 12 to 7. Every man on the Giant line-up with the exception of Barnes, the pitcher, made at least one hit.

Milton Stock was the driving power in scoring in St Louis' runs, the diminutive third baseman slamming out two home runs with two men on bases on each occasion.

The Giants are now leading the league by two and a half games.

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 28.—If either or both of the St. Louis entries should head the Giants or Yankees at the end of the major league pennant races, it will be a triumph of conservative building over commercial frenzy.

The St. Louis clubs have cost their respective owners nothing in particular beyond a few heartaches in former years; the Giants and Yankees are an ensemble of baseball prima donnas, almost prohibitive in price.

Consider the present Giant roster, for example: Heinie Groh is supposed to have separated his owners from a mere matter of $150,000; Bancroft, $75,000; Meusel, $50,000; Nehf and Shinners, $40,000 each, and Toney, Douglas, Snyder and others well above $10,000 each.

Ross Young in right field; George Kelly, first baseman; Bill Ryan, the pitcher; Earl Smith, catcher, and Frank Frisch, in the infield, alone are developments of the safe and sane policy.

The Yankees? Kindly see J. P. Morgan & Company without delay. Babe Ruth cost more than $125,000 before the price of major leagues chattels got out of focus. Even before then Frank Baker went under the hammer for $30,000, while Mays was bought for $40,000 several years later.

There is no such thing as estimating what Schang, Hoyt, Jones, Scott, Bush, McNally and other former Red Sox cost the Yankees, because they figured in trades where the cash consideration was kept as dark as Kid Norfolk's countenance. Even more recently Whitey Witt escaped from Philadelphia at a cost of $10,000.

Next we will call the attention of the class to the St. Louis Browns. Shocker, one of the best right handers in baseball, was a gift from the Yankees; Severeid, a fine catcher, came up from the American association at the usual rate of exchange; Sisler, greatest player in the game today, was secured from Michigan university for the cost of a free lunch; McManus and Gerber are minor league purchases of slight amount; Ellerbe came in a trade with Washington, and Williams and Jacobson, outfielders, were inexpensive minor leaguers. Pruitt, great young left hander, was an inexpensive collegian.

Of the entire outfit Johnny Tobin, having been a Federal League star, cost a good round sum because of the rather frantic bidding that prevailed at the time and Dave Danforth, the left hander, is supposed to have come from Columbus for a consideration well above $40,000.

The Cards were assembled at a financial outlay similar in proportions. Flack was secured from the Cubs in a "hoss and hoss" trade in which Cliff Heathcote also figured; Jack Smith cost less than $1,000; the great Hornsby less than $1,500; Mueller was picked up, merely as a promising minor leaguer, and the same might be said of Fournier, who haid failed to make the riffle with the White Sox and Yankees.

Milton Stock and Jeff Pfeffer are the results of trades in which the Phils and Dodgers respectively took much the worst of it; Ainsmith was picked off the baseball boneyard; Clemons, another catcher, was a moderately priced young man, and McCurdy, a third, was a collegian, hence cost nothing.

Doc Lavan, the shortstop, was chased out of the American League and was sold by the Senators at the waiver price, while Doak, Sherdel, Walker, Haines, North, Pertica and other pitchers came to the club at little or no expense. Not to mention "Specs" Toporcer, one of the best utility men in the game, who was found on the New York sand lots.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Perusal of the opinion of the various baseball critics of the country shows a preponderance in favor of the New York Giants to win the pennant in the National league again this year. To see the St. Louis Americans leading their league and the St. Louis Nationals second in their race is something that the fans of that city have not witnessed for many a long year for their baseball representatives in past recent years have done nothing that would set the baseball firmament aglow. Somehow or other Philadelphia as a baseball city seems to have changed places with St. Louis. It is many and many a moon since the Philadelphia backers of the teams have had anything to get excited over. Even Chicago seems out of the running at the present time.

Yale university has come all

In point of interest, one of the most important of the intersectional football games to be played this fall will be that between Princeton university and the University of Chicago. The Windy City boys beat the Princetonians by a score of ten points to nil last fall in the first game ever played between those two seats of learning, and the Tigers are anxious to show the Illinoisans a thing or two in return.

The popularity of Hobart Baker, the Princeton athlete who was killed in the great war, and for whom a memorial is being raised, is best shown by the fact that of nearly $200,000 raised at least half of it has come from men in universities other than Princeton, and much from persons not affiliated with any seat of learning.

Scientific Home Is Great Labor Saver

How many steps would a scientifically planned home save a housewife in thirty years has been worked out by the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company and the answer given as 2,191,000 steps, or 1,245 miles in thirty years. This calculation is based on the theory that such a house saves five steps between the frequently used rooms.

On the subject of scientific planning the Bentley-Schoeneman people say, "Proper planning pays, financially, but much more in comfort, pride, convenienre and satisfaction. Many people build average houses, a very few build real homes. All are called homes, but few deserve the name. Why? Architecturally speaking, the great majority are devoid of scientific plan, unnecessarily devoid of the character and comforts of home.

"You may build but once; it costs the savings of years. Why spend the hard-earned money and take the chance of blighting the anticipations of that of your dreams. Regardless of the fact that a number of advantages may have been overlooked, the house must be used as a home and for a life time, likely.

"Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company had these very important facts in mind when they made a connection with a national orzanization of professional architects and designers, the National Builders' bureau. Civic pride means a city of which to be proud. Ugly streets and poorly-designed and constructed homes do not add prestige to our community. On the other hand, beautiful homes, no matter how small; clean and well-paved streets, trees, flowers and well-kept lawns go to make a city beautiful. Boost civic pride and the things that make it, for results will reflect back to you. Make a booster and a good citizen of an individual who otherwise might be a sour, discontented and transient person and a poor asset to our community."

Being able to accomplish wonders is what makes a man a liar.

One side of a person's face is better looking than the other, and experts agree there is no exception to this rule.

the Valley Supply company, who gave a short talk on the feed business and a history of his experience in the business here.

Makes Interesting Talk

"I came to Glendale in 1916," said Mr. Hollister, "and bought out the Valley Supply company. I had formerly been in the dry goods business and I know that some people look upon the feed business as not a very dignified line. However, I believe that a man's business is what he makes it."

Speaking of the history of the feed business, Mr. Hollister first told of the development of grain mills. Originally owners of chickens or other stock used to go to the grist mills and get the waste which fell from the mill, to be used as feed. With the development of the more efficient power mills, the absence of waste eliminated this method of getting feed and the feed was handled as a regular business.

It has been only a few years, he stated, since people began to feed stock scientifically and the development of a proper method of feeding has taken place rapidly since then. While hens a comparatively few years ago, used to average between fifty and 100 eggs per year, many now lay 200 and 250.

Plenty of Chickens

There are 1,500,000 chickens in the five southern counties of California, he estimated, while in the northern part of the state, including the famous Petaluma chicken raising district, there are probably 6,000,000. With chickens being raised in that quantity, the necessity for a developed feed business is certain.

The method of making up a chicken's ration, said Mr. Hollister, seems almost a backward way of doing things, for the formula starts with the egg. This is analyzed; and the various ingredients and their proportions are noted. The different kinds of feed and their proportions, to be in exact ratio with the ingredients of the egg are then figured out, and used as the formula for the mash.

Mr. Hollister told a few tricks of the trade, as practiced by some dealers, but stated that by maintaining a standard quality, regardless of cost fluctuations, he expected to still be doing business when some competitors were in the hands of the receiver.

At the conclusion of his talk the Rotarians sang one of the club songs and then left for a trip through Mr. Hollister's plant. There he explained the workings of the equipment, the methods of handling grain, and the manufacture of the feeds.

Before leaving, the guests were each presented with a bamboo rake and lined up in company front to sing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Change of Name Is Sought for Street

A petition to change Post street to Vista Court was approved last night by the city council. It was signed by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guillemin of 405 West Elk avenue; P. P. Reynolds, 1230 Hill street, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Strong of 733 East Palmer avenue, and Mrs. Florence Watson of 730 East Palmer avenue.

by the suggestion that the money should be raised exclusively on Glendale avenue. He explained that they did not consider this a fair allotment and that many of them were refusing to make any contribution. Mr. McClish admitted that he knew that contributions were being received from property owners off Glendale avenue but that others in his neighborhood did not have this knowledge.

Discuss Methods

Mrs. Mabel L. Tight of 612 East Broadway commented upon the fact that residents east of Glendale avenue probably would get more real benefit from the new line than those living along this thoroughfare because it is too close to the Brand boulevard car line

Mr. Stanley inquired if the records did not show that half of the contributions have come from property owners whose interests are off Glendale avenue. This was verified.

An appeal was made by Dr. Henry R. Harrower to wage an immediate campaign for the collection of the bonus. He remarked that a donation of $5 or $10 from tenants along the line for street car service would be acceptable but that the bulk of the money should come from property owners.

John P. Lambert of 622 East Broadway, chairman of the railroad committee, stated his opinion that an active campaign could be started next Monday morning.

A meeting of this committee was called for 7:45 o'clock tonight to discuss possible donors and to divide up the names of the prospective contributors among the workers.

"We have got to consider this matter seriously or we will lose out," said Mr. Ingledue.

Tells of Federation

Dr. Jessie Russell of 208 South Brand boulevard, chairman of the civics committee of the Chamber of Commerce, was a guest of the occasion. She explained the purpose of the new federated civics committee of delegates from the various improvement associations as an attempt to coordinate their plans. She said that so far as she was concerned she was without bias in regard to any question of the city. She said that she disapproved of the community being divided into arbitrary districts by imaginary boundary lines

Motion wa sintroduced by C. F. Stuart of 628 East Broadway and seconded by Mr. Perch, after some delay due to laughter, that City Manager W. H. Reeves, who was present, should inform the city council that Dr. Jessie Russell has successfully amputated the existing geographical schism in Glendale as diagnosed by Dr. Henry R. Harrower.

Dr. Russell emphasized the interest which residents of all sections of the city should take to the proposed new car line by calling attention to the fact that competition was often good for the pocketbook and inferring that the Pacific Electric might give better service.

Upon motion of Mr. Stanley, Mr. Ingledue appointed a membership committee consisting of Mr. Stanley, Mr. Perch and E. R Harrington of 334 Howard street.

'NANOOK OF NORTH' IS FEATURE AT T. D. & L.

Noted Film Taken In Arctic Regions Shows Tonight at Local Theatre

Here's a new and startling novelty for that hectic tribe of peopie who cry and chant, "There's nothing new in the movies!" "Nanook of the North," the Pathe feature, which promises to be the screen sensation of the year, introduces two absolutely new screen personalities, Nanook, "The Bear," and Nyla, "The Smiling One," at the T. D. & L. theatre tonight.

No studio work is seen in the production, and all lighting effects were supplied by the sun during the day, and the Aurora Borealis during the night. Actually photographed in the Arctic regions. No other picture like it and perhaps never again will you have the opportunity to see so marvelous—so unusual a picture. Also on this same program is Harold Lloyd in one of his finest comedies, "I Do."

In addition to the pictures there will be presented again tonight a return engagement of the Rex Taylor-Mel Brown vaudeville sketch, "The Price of a Kiss,' with a notable cast of 8 players. This sketch is guaranteed to be one of the best vaudeville comedy dramas ever presented in Glendale.

English Star Appears

Miss Helen Raymond, who will appear in person at the T. D. & L. theatre Saturday, is one of the favorites of the English stage. Her greatest success on the other side was a three years' run as the star comedienne of "Twin Beds."

Miss Raymond will make her initial appearance on the coast in a new sketch, entitled "Appearances," which is written and produced by Mel Brown and Rex Taylor, whose clever work is already known to patrons of the T. D. & L

REMAIN CALM IF SOME DELAY IN MAIL DELIVERY

Number of Substitutes In Postal Service As Result Of Vacation Period

If your mail is not coming just exactly to suit you or if there should be some mistakes in delivery during the vacation months, don't get overheated and jump all over the mail man, for he may be new on the job, owing to the regular mail carriers taking their vacations and substitutes filling their places, stated D. Ripley Jackson, postmaster here, today.

The Glendale regular carriers are taking their vacations in relays of four which requires four new men to take their places and these men do the best they can as substitutes.

Several of the substitutes are ex-service men and all the men are intelligent, capable hands, but there are so many details to each route which these new men do not know as familiarly as the regulars that it makes the work more difficult.

Don't Complain, Folks

"Some complaints about inaccuracies have been coming into the postoffice," said Postmaster Jackson, "but I hope the public will be a little more lenient in overlooking the trivial mistakes when they learn that there are several substitute mail men now on duty and render them any cooperation they can.

"I hope that before the summer is over the postoffice department will allow us to have the extra carriers that the expansion of this section requires and to keep the substitute carriers on as regulars," said the postmaster.

Prince of Monaco Aids Science in Will

MONTE CARLO. — Prince Albert of Monaco has left the equivalent of more than half a million dollars to the development of scientific research.

Reading of the will of the late prince took place shortly after the funeral. Much of his income—derived in no small part from the notorious Monte Carlo Casino—already had been devoted during his lifetime to scientific studies, especially the pursuit of knowledge about the sea and its life.

The French Academy of Science, the French Academy of Medicine, the Oceanographic Institute of Paris, the Institute of Human Paleontology of Paris and the Oceanographic Museum of Monaco each received one million francs of the legacy.

Girl Threatens to 'Expose' N. Y. Society

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—When the tangled love affairs of Evan Burrows Fontaine, Broadway dancing favorite, and Cornelius Vanderbile Whitney, son of Harry Payne Whitney, wealthy sportsman, are aired in open court at the hearing of the musical comedy star's suit against Whitney to establish the paternity of a 19-months-old baby boy and Whitney's refusal to marry her, all of Knickerbocker's proud society will have the truth told about them.

This Miss Fontaine said today when she let it be known that when she tells her story she will tell it all and spare no one and that her testimony will be a "skyrocket sensation." The charming dancer ventured to say that her story would involve the wealthiest men in New York and added that she hoped "my expose will not break up too many homes."
